WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY, Near the Yugoslav border, Oct. 19 (AP)—Camouflaged units of Italy's crack Folgore (Lightning) infantry division moved into positions today near the strategic elbow of Yugoslavia, Italy, and the Allied-occupied zone of Trieste Free Territory.

Troops, tanks, and artillery of the division moved under cover of early morning darkness into the area a few miles north of the ship-building city of Monfalcone on the Gulf of Trieste. They were the first Italian troops known to have been thrown across a possible Yugoslav entry route toward the narrow neck which connects British-American occupied Zone A of Trieste with Italy.

First Troops To Move

They also are the first Italian soldiers to move within a few miles of Zone A, on which Yugoslav President Marshal Tito has threatened to march if a single Italian soldier enters the zone after British and American forces withdrawal.

The camouflaged troops began digging in within sight of the high hills across the Yugoslav frontier. Many of the units are less than two miles from the border and within seven miles of Zone A.

The whole troop movement was unknown to villagers living a short distance away. Not a sign of the units could be seen from a highway running along the head of the Adriatic Sea. Only a few telltale field telephone wires gave evidence that troops were near.

Troops of the highly trained, trim-looking Italian division came from Cervignano, about 12 miles west of Monfalcone and from around Gradisca, 12 miles to the north.

Soldiers Are Camouflaged

The soldiers were dressed in water-proof camouflaged ponchos, reminiscent of those worn by U. S. Marines in World War II.

Artillery pieces were placed under trees and were covered with camouflage netting. A few light tanks, gun carriers, field kitchen units, tents, and a hospital tent were so well disguised they could scarcely be seen 30 yards away.

The area they occupy still bears the scars of World War I, hundreds of thousands of Italians having lost their lives fighting for Trieste which was then Austrian. Austrian and Italian cemeteries dot the quiet valleys lining the Yugoslav border.

After World War I, Trieste was given to Italy. With both Italy and Yugoslavia demanding the strategic port area after World War II, the Italian Peace Treaty made it a free territory with Yugoslavia occupying the zone B and Britain and the United States the other Zone A.

Wayne Divorce
Fight Is Bitter

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)—John Wayne's Mexican wife today accused him of spending the night with actress Gail Russell.

The actor countered with a charge that she entertained an unnamed man in his home for a week while he was in Honolulu last year. The charges and counter-charges were contained in specifications of cruelty filed with the court as the couple's divorce trial, expected to be one of the bitterest in Hollywood history, got under way.

Mrs. Wayne, 31, the former Esperanza Baur, originally filed for divorce and her husband, the movies' top he-man actor, later filed a cross complaint. Both charge extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Wayne accused her brawny spouse of manhandling her on 22 different occasions.

The Weather Bureau, noting this, commented: "One year ago on the morning of Oct. 20, 1952, there was three inches of snow on the ground."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The strange saga of King Gregory John's train ride came to an end today. The Gypsy king was buried at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The 77-year-old King, whose Christian name is Gregory John Alvarez, died Oct. 11 at Healdton, Okla. He and members of his Gypsy clan were on a motor trip from their home at Germantown, N. C., when he had a heart attack.

Funeral services were held in Oklahoma and the clan members decided to escort the body to Washington for burial.

Supreme Court
Refuses Fair
Trade Ruling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Supreme Court, for the second week in a row, today refused to rule on the legality of "fair trade" laws which limit cut rate selling by merchants.

Today's decision rejected an appeal questioning the constitutionality of the McGuire Act of 1952, which put federal teeth into the trade laws of 45 states. All states have such a law except Texas, Missouri, Vermont and the District of Columbia.

Under "fair trade" laws a manufacturer may set the retail price of his product. The McGuire Act stipulates that if a manufacturer signs a pricing agreement with any merchant in a state that has a "fair trade" law, all other retailers in the state must abide by it.

Schwartz Brothers Giant Super Market of New Orleans had questioned the constitutionality of both the McGuire Act and Louisiana's "fair trade" law. The firm appealed a decision of the U. S. District Court in New Orleans ordering Schwartz to sell insulin made by Eli Lilly & Co. at the "fair trade" price of $2.83 instead of 75 cents less.

Last week, the court refused to consider an appeal from a Georgia Supreme Court ruling which declared that state's trade law illegal.

In neither decision of the price laws did the justices give any reason for their denial of a hearing. However, in cases such as the Georgia appeal, where a state law was primarily involved, the court has said it does not like to rule on the decisions of a state supreme court which do not substantially affect federal law.

More Air Power
Set For Europe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson dropped a possible hint today that the United States may put more air power in Europe and pull out some of its ground troops there.

Asked at a news conference about the possibility of reducing the number of American troops in Europe, Wilson replied cryptically that "whether we take our load in airpower or in ground troops is a thing that has to be worked out."

He added: "It would be a great mistake if the people of our country got into a rut on decisions that have been made in the past."

To another question, Wilson said he believed that in the "long run" development of new weapons would enable the United States to make a reduction of troop strength in Europe. He did not define "long run."

Four Former UN Employees

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The United Nations administrative tribunal tonight awarded $48,230 in compensation to four American former U.N. employees fired for refusing to answer questions about their alleged Communist ties at U. S. loyalty probes.

The tribunal, created by the U.N. General Assembly to review appeals from U.N. staff members, previously had ruled that the firing of 11 employees of the world body after the loyalty probes was illegal. Dag Hammarskjöld, U.N. secretary general, announced he would not rehire the four as directed by the tribunal, asking that body under alternative U.N. rules to fix compensation for them.

U.N. officials previously estimated that indemnities and back salary payments for the other seven would total about $135,000. The employees had refused, un-

Return From London

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles returned to his desk today with a new stack of troubles piling up over the proposed Korean peace conference and the potentially explosive crises in Trieste and Palestine.

Back from the Big Three foreign ministers parley in London, Dulles said he plans to report to President Eisenhower "first thing tomorrow morning."

The secretary, expressing cautious optimism about the outcome of the London talks, was greeted by these rapid-fire developments:

Agree To Conference

1. Communist China agreed to meet with the United Nations allies at Panmunjom next Monday to arrange the time and place of the Korean peace conference—but insisted that the Panmunjom talks must also settle the question of what nations will join in the full-scale conference later.

2. Mounting tension between Israel and the Arab states, stemming from bloody Israel-Jordan border incidents, came under discussion at an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council in New York.

3. The United States, in a move to ease another Israeli trouble source, announced it is cutting off American aid to Israel until that republic halts work on a project to divert the waters of the River Jordan along the Syrian border.

4. The Belgrade radio broadcast a statement saying Yugoslavia would refuse the West's invitation for a five-power conference to discuss the burning Trieste issue, if it is a foregone conclusion that Trieste's Zone A, now occupied by American and British troops, will be handed over to Italy. The West has suggested a meeting among Britain, France, the United States, Italy and Yugoslavia to settle the Trieste dispute.

Indicates Cold Shoulder

5. Communist reaction indicated a cold shoulder to the latest Western proposal for the Big Four foreign ministers—American, British, French and Russian—to meet at Lugano, Switzerland, on Nov. 9 to discuss the future of Germany and Austria.

The Soviet-controlled East German news agency ADN said the newest proposal "contains no concrete reply" to Soviet proposals and "confines itself to generalities." Diplomatic experts said that once more the Russians appeared to be stalling.

"Squeeze" On Farmers
Likely To Continue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—That cost-price "squeeze" the farmers are in this year—with costs of things they buy still high but the prices of farm goods they sell still down—will likely continue in 1954, the Agriculture Department said today.

The department said the cost rates for farm production items have eased off slightly in 1953 and some further decline is probable in 1954. But it added that prices received by farmers for their products also may average slightly lower next year.

Czechs And Poles Quit NNRC

Miffed When Other
Delegates Refuse
Forced Persuasion

PANMUNJOM, Tuesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—Angry Czech and Polish members reportedly walked out on the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission yesterday, a break that may portend collapse of Communist attempts to persuade 22,400 anti-Red prisoners to return home.

Reliable sources said the two Communist members stalked out when Swiss and Swedish members and the Indian chairman refused to force North Korean prisoners to attend persuasion sessions.

(The Swiss government backed up its delegate, announcing in Bern it had given him "categorical instructions that Switzerland seeks to avoid the use of force under all circumstances." It said use of force would violate the Geneva Convention.)

Refuse Confirmation

A NNRC spokesman refused to confirm or deny the walkout report.

The depth of the break may be determined today. The commission has scheduled another meeting for 10 a.m. (8 p.m., Monday, EST). It remained to be seen whether the Czech and Polish members would attend.

All Red explanation sessions were canceled today, as they were Monday. The Communists insisted on talking to 1,000 North Korean prisoners. India said the prisoners could not be persuaded to attend.

Some Allied quarters said the Reds might be using the dispute over North Korean prisoners as an excuse to stall off for the time being and perhaps ultimately abandon their explanations.

These sources pointed out the Reds had been taking a propaganda beating so far. They have talked to 921 Chinese and only 19 agreed to return to communism. It is believed the Communists had expected a much higher percentage.

Chinese Show Interest

The Communists always have shown more interest in the balking 14,600 Chinese than in the 7,800 North Koreans.

Since last Friday, however, when North Koreans threatened a mass breakout if force was attempted to make them listen to Red teams, the Communists have insisted on talking to North Koreans. They have rejected Indian proffers of Chinese prisoners, who appear willing to listen at last.

20 Are Killed
In Plane Crash

FALCON DAM, Oct. 19 (AP)—More than 20 persons, including some of Mexico's top newspaper reporters and entertainers, were killed in an airplane crash today while en route to the meeting of U. S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mexico's President Adolfo Ruiz Cortinez.

The government-owned C47 plane left Monterrey at 7 a.m., with a load of newsmen and officials bound for the meeting of Presidents.

The 23-passenger plane, completely wrecked on the side of a deep ravine, was sighted this afternoon 16 miles northeast of Monterrey. There apparently were no survivors.

The National Fine Arts Institute listed six male and seven female dancers and three other persons of the Gloria Mestre Ballet who were aboard. The dancers were to participate in the entertainment for the Presidents.

The airlift carrying officials, entertainers and reporters to the dam had planes taking off every few minutes, and no full records were kept of who went in the plane.

"Dragnet" Star's

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)—Actress Julie London will receive $25,000 annual alimony and a half million dollar property settlement, her attorney disclosed today.

Her husband is Jack Webb, 33, star of the radio-TV show, "Dragnet."

Shooting Accidental

CRISFIELD, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Sheriff Murray Ward today called accidental the fatal shooting of 16-year-old Ira Clayton Roach on Saturday. Roach was shot in the head while removing a shotgun from a truck after returning with several companions from hunting, the sheriff said.

Winter Pays A Call

Automobiles move with caution over snow-covered highway in the vicinity of Donner Summit, Calif., about 185-miles northeast of San Francisco. It was the first snow storm to hit the area this fall. Snow graders were able to keep the roadway accessible to motorists.

Modest Purser
Rescued Many
In Plane Crash

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—A modest purser who braved a white-hot wall of flame was praised today for preventing disaster in the blazing crash of an airliner at Idlewild Airport. Only 2 of 27 persons aboard died.

However, the purser, Albert Folli, 29, of Clifton, N.J., passed all credit for heroism to the stewardess of the four-engine Eastern Airlines Constellation. She is Anne Krause, 33, a willowy brunette from Philadelphia.

"The purser just leaped through the flames and opened the door," said one passenger, who said he owed his life to Folli's leadership in the split second between salvation and death.

As Folli led the passengers out, Miss Krause stayed behind to see that they all made it. Both crew members were painfully but not critically burned.

"If there is any credit due—give it to Anne," Folli insisted.

At least 12 passengers suffered burns or injuries and three were reported in critical condition.

The airliner was taking off for Puerto Rico at 12:56 a.m. (EST), an hour late because of a heavy fog.

As it left the runway it shuddered, bounced down again and skidded 1,500 feet across the runway and into a grassy marsh. Its 4,200 gallons of high octane gasoline went up in a series of explosions that made the wreckage a torch against the blackness of early morning.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Federal Employment
Drop Is Anticipated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, estimated today that federal employment will be reduced by about 115,000 persons in the year ending next June 30.

The commission said government employment in the continental United States stood at 2,445,200 on Aug. 31.

Young said only a small proportion of indefinite employees would be affected by contemplated reductions.

Woman's Burned
Body Is Found

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The slashed, burned body of an unidentified young Negro woman was discovered last night in the Western Maryland Railway yards a few blocks from City Hall.

Police said the girl apparently had been murdered elsewhere and her body carried to the railroad property. They theorized the body was set aflame in a crude attempt to cover the crime.

Baby Is Drowned

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—A 14-month-old boy was drowned today when he and a companion fell into a fishpond in a neighboring yard. Pronounced dead at Union Memorial Hospital was Dale Wooten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle Wooten. Police said the pond was 18 inches deep at its deepest point.

Five Crewmen
Saved As Plane
Crashes In Harbor

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 19 (AP)—A U. S. Navy amphibious P2V crashed with a terrific explosion in St. Georges Harbor tonight and only 5 of the 10 men believed aboard were rescued.

The U. S. Air Force base at Kindley Field did not give the plane's port of origin, but it was believed on a training flight from Quonset Point, R. I.

A crash boat from the Air Force base rushed to the scene, as did the Coast Guard cutter Cook Inlet.

McCarthy Plans
Monmouth Visit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), accompanied by Secretary of the Army Stevens, will visit the Army's Ft. Monmouth, N. J., signal center tomorrow to prepare the way for further investigations of an alleged radar spy ring.

McCarthy, whose Senate investigations subcommittee is looking into reported security leaks at Monmouth's Signal Corps laboratories, told reporters he and Stevens will personally inspect security practices there.

The subcommittee has conducted closed hearings in New York and McCarthy said a similar session will be held Thursday either at Ft. Monmouth or New York.

McCarthy said he also plans to visit David Greenglass, convicted atom spy, at the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., some time after Thursday's hearing. Testimony so far, McCarthy has said, tends to link the alleged radar spy ring to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed atom spies with whom Greenglass was associated.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—John J. Muccio, U. S. ambassador in Seoul at the outbreak of the Korean war, was married today to Miss Sheila McCulloch of Alexandria, Va.

Muccio, 53, met his bride, 29, at least as hard to make her home safe as she does to play a good game of bridge or bake a good batch of biscuits.

'Loophole' Aids Government
Workers Evade Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Dei.) said today an estimated 25,000 federal employees are evading payment of income taxes and the government is powerless to collect from them.

Some of the tax dodgers, Williams said, work in the Treasury Department itself.

Terming it "a shocking and disgraceful situation," Williams said in a statement he will ask Congress to enact corrective legislation when the lawmakers return in January.

The Delaware senator, who has long been conducting a one-man checkup of tax frauds, said the 25,000 federal workers have found a "loophole" enabling them to comply with the law technically by filing their income tax returns, but then refusing to pay the taxes due.

U. N. Security
Group Approves
Lodge's Motion

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Security Council approved today a U. S. motion by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., requesting a full report from the U. N. truce supervisor on recent acts of violence between Israel and neighboring Arab states.

The Council has not yet formally put this new crisis in Palestine on its agenda. But the request was dispatched anyway for Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, chief of staff of the U. N. truce supervision organization in Palestine, to fly here and tell the Council about the latest events.

The Council will meet again tomorrow to settle how the question shall be listed on the agenda. It is not expected to hear Bennike until late in the week.

The United States, Britain and France called the Council into an urgent session today. They had sharply denounced an Israeli attack last Wednesday on the Jordan border village of Kibya. The Jordan government reported 66 Arabs were killed and 9 wounded.

Israel claimed tension in the area was Jordan's fault and began steps for an inquiry into all border incidents since the 1949 Israel-Arab armistice agreements took effect.

The United States, meanwhile, notified Israel it will withhold American financial aid until the Israeli government stops trying to divert the Jordan River along the Syrian frontier. Syria has complained about this diversion to the Security Council and that complaint is slated to be heard Thursday.

Daughter Subs
For Ailing Speaker

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, was unable to address the National Safety Congress today but supplied a pinch speaker—her 17-year-old daughter, Patricia.

Spokesmen said Mrs. Priest could not appear because of illness.

Patricia said a lady should "try at least as hard to make her home safe as she does to play a good game of bridge or bake a good batch of biscuits."

Filing the returns makes them safe from prosecution, he said, and the government can't collect the tax because a federal law prohibits the salaries of government employees being attached.

Williams said the loss in taxes thus uncollected might run into millions of dollars.

Like other taxpayers, most federal employees are subject to the government withholding tax. But in some cases, Williams said, the withholding tax is not enough to cover all the tax due.

Williams said the rules of the Civil Service Commission do not count the non-payment of bills or taxes as a demerit, and the commission has ruled that employees "cannot be disciplined or fired" for that reason.

Reds Approve
Meeting With
U. S. EnvoysCommunists To Insist
On Discussion Of All
Nations To Attend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Communists yesterday agreed to meet with a U. S. envoy next Monday at Panmunjom to arrange for the Korean peace conference, originally scheduled to begin Oct. 28.

But in accepting, the Communists in a note broadcast by Peiping radio once more insisted on discussing which nations shall attend. This is the very issue that has balked all efforts to get the momentous sessions started.

Goes To Panmunjom

A U. S. spokesman at the United Nations said the U. S. representative, Arthur Dean, would fly to Panmunjom later this week for the talks. Dean, special State Department consultant, will be accompanied by a half dozen advisers and will pick up others in Tokyo and Seoul.

The United States, after consulting its allies in the Korean War, sent the Communists a note last week proposing a meeting at Panmunjom to select a time and place for the peace conference.

The U. S. note said the Allies would be ready to discuss the question of neutrals attending the peace conference "to the extent consistent with" previous decisions made by the United Nations.

The Communists want Russia, India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma to attend. The United States would agree only to Russia, and then only if the Soviets were invited by Red China and North Korea. The United Nations backed the United States.

Thus it appeared likely that the Panmunjom meeting would bog down in an argument over the neutral nation question.

In yesterday's note, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China made clear he believed the question of neutral nations participating was more important than settling the time and place.

He said that his government "deems that in these (Panmunjom) discussions there could be included the settlement of the place and time" but that "what is more essential, these discussions should settle the question of composition of the political (peace) conference."

Indian sources at the United Nations said the U. S. note's reference to a discussion of the neutral nation question—even though it showed no sign of a weakening of the U. S. attitude—was a strong factor in Peiping's agreeing to go to Panmunjom.

A high Western diplomat at the United Nations declared the U. S. note as phrased did not bar a discussion at Panmunjom of the neutral nation issue.

Vaporized Oil
Caused Blast

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A high-ranking Navy officer tonight confirmed the deduction of Capt. Thomas A. Ahroon that an explosion of vaporized catapult hydraulic oil was the cause of a blast which killed 36 and injured dozens of others aboard the aircraft carrier Leyte last Friday.

Vice Adm. John J. Ballentine, commander of the air arm of Atlantic Fleet, came here from his headquarters at Norfolk, Va., to make a personal survey of the blasted and burned forward end of the carrier.

He told a news conference that "it is obvious to me that the hydraulic fluid used in the catapult was somehow voided and converted into an explosive mixture."

Ballentine discounted suggestions that the blast may have been caused by a saboteur.

"If it was—the saboteur was killed," he said.

He said nine men killed in the vicinity of the catapult room, the center of the blast and fire, were the top catapult experts of the Leyte and from the Boston naval shipyard. The ship was here for refitting to become the first big carrier assigned to "hunter-killer" anti-submarine warfare.

Earlier Capt. Ahroon, who took command of the Leyte only three weeks ago, testified before a Navy board of inquiry that it was his opinion that the hydraulic fluid, pumped to a high pressure, somehow leaked out of the machinery "through a pinhole" which atomized it into an explosive vapor. He requested the court to seek tests of his theory.

Likely To Continue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—That cost-price "squeeze" the farmers are in this year—with costs of things they buy still high but the prices of farm products they sell still down—will likely continue in 1954, the Agriculture Department said today.

The department said the cost rates for farm production items have eased off slightly in 1953 and some further decline is probable in 1954. But it added that prices received by farmers for their products also may average slightly lower next year.

Czechs And Poles Quit NNRC

Miffed When Other
Delegates Refuse
Forced Persuasion

PANMUNJOM, Tuesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—Angry Czech and Polish members reportedly walked out on the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission yesterday, a break that may portend collapse of Communist attempts to persuade 22,400 anti-Red prisoners to return home.

Reliable sources said the two Communist members stalked out when Swiss and Swedish members and the Indian chairman refused to force North Korean prisoners to attend persuasion sessions.

(The Swiss government backed up its delegate, announcing in Bern it had given him "categorical instructions that Switzerland seeks to avoid the use of force under all circumstances.") It said use of force would violate the Geneva Convention.)

Refuse Confirmation

A NNRC spokesman refused to confirm or deny the walkout report.

The depth of the break may be determined so far. The commission has scheduled another meeting for 10 a. m. (8 p. m., Monday, EST). It remained to be seen whether the Czech and Polish members would attend.

All Red explanation sessions were canceled today, as they were Monday. The Communists insisted on talking to 1,000 North Korean prisoners. India said the prisoners could not be persuaded to attend.

Some Allied quarters said the Reds might be using the dispute over North Korean prisoners as an excuse to stall off for the time being and perhaps ultimately abandon their explanations.

These sources pointed out the Reds had been taking a propaganda beating so far. They have talked to 921 Chinese and only 19 agreed to return to communism. It is believed the Communists had expected a much higher percentage.

Chinese Show Interest

The Communists always have shown more interest in the balking 14,600 Chinese than in the 7,800 North Koreans.

Since last Friday, however, when North Koreans threatened a mass breakout if force was attempted to make them listen to Red teams, the Communists have insisted on talking to North Koreans. They have rejected Indian proffers of Chinese prisoners, who appear willing to listen at last.

20 Are Killed
In Plane Crash

FALCON DAM, Oct. 19 (AP)—More than 20 persons, including some of Mexico's top newspaper reporters and entertainers, were killed in an airplane crash today while en route to the meeting of U. S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortinez.

The government-owned C. 47 plane left Monterrey at 7 a. m. with a load of newsmen and officials bound for the meeting of Presidents.

The 23-passenger plane, completely wrecked on the side of a deep ravine, was sighted this afternoon 16 miles northeast of Monterrey. There apparently were no survivors.

The National Fine Arts Institute listed six male and seven female dancers and three other persons of the Gloria Mestre Ballet who were aboard. The dancers were to participate in the entertainment for the Presidents.

The airlift carrying officials, entertainers and reporters to the dam had planes taking off every few minutes, and no full records were kept of who went in the plane.

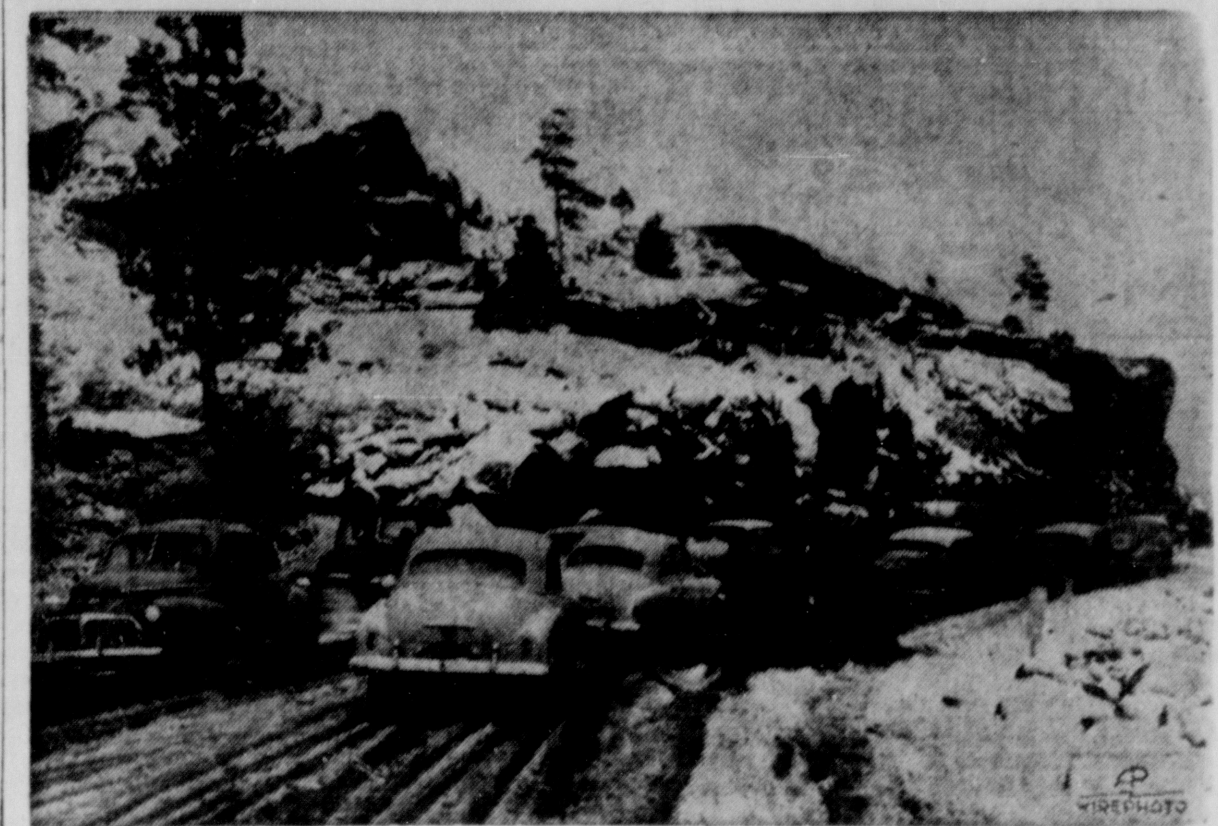

"Dragnet" Star's
Wife Gets Alimony

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)—Actress Julie London will receive $25,000 annual alimony and a half million dollar property settlement, her attorney disclosed today.

Shooting Accidental

CRISFIELD, Md., Oct. 19 (AP)—Sheriff Murray Ward today called accidental the fatal shooting of 16-year-old Ira Clayton Roach on Saturday. Roach was shot in the head while removing a shotgun from a truck after returning with several companions from hunting, the sheriff said.

Winter Pays A Call

Automobiles move with caution over snow-covered highway in the vicinity of Donner Summit, Calif., about 185-miles northeast of San Francisco. It was the first snow storm to hit the area this fall. Snow graders were able to keep the roadway accessible to motorists.

Modest Purser
Rescued Many
In Plane Crash

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—A modest purser who braved a white-hot wall of flame was praised today for preventing disaster in the blazing crash of an airliner at Idlewild Airport. Only 27 persons aboard died.

However, the purser, Albert Folli, 29, of Clifton, N. J., passed all credit for heroism to the stewardess of the four-engine Eastern Airlines Constellation. She is Anne Krause, 33, a willowy brunette from Philadelphia.

"The purser just leaped through the flames and opened the door," said one passenger, who said he owed his life to Folli's leadership in the split second between salvation and death.

As Folli led the passengers out, Miss Krause stayed behind to see that they all made it. Both crew members were painfully but not critically burned.

"If there is any credit due—give it to Anne," Folli insisted.

At least 12 passengers suffered burns or injuries and three were reported in critical condition. The airliner was taking off for Puerto Rico at 12:56 a. m. (EST), an hour late because of a heavy fog.

As it left the runway it shuddered, bounced down again and skidded 1,500 feet across the runway and into a grassy marsh. Its 4,200 gallons of high octane gasoline went up in a series of explosions that made the wreckage a torch against the blackness of early morning.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Federal Employment
Drop Is Anticipated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Philip Young, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, estimated today that federal employment will be reduced by about 115,000 persons in the year ending next June 30.

The commission said government employment in the continental United States stood at 2,445,200 on Aug. 31.

Young said only a small proportion of indefinite employees would be affected by contemplated reductions.

Woman's Burned
Body Is Found

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—The slashed, burned body of an unidentified young Negro woman was discovered last night in the Western Maryland Railway yards a few blocks from City Hall.

Police said the girl apparently had been murdered elsewhere and her body carried to the railroad property. They theorized the body was set afire in a crude attempt to cover the crime.

Baby Is Drowned

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—A 14-month-old boy was drowned today when he and a companion fell into a fishpond in a neighboring yard. Pronounced dead at Union Memorial Hospital was Dale Wooten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle Wooten. Police said the pond was 18 inches deep at its deepest point.

Five Crewmen
Saved As Plane
Crashes In Harbor

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 19 (AP)—A U. S. Navy amphibious P-3V crashed with a terrific explosion in St. Georges Harbor tonight and only 5 of the 10 men believed aboard were rescued.

The U. S. Air Force base at Kindley Field did not give the plane's port of origin, but it was believed on a training flight from Queen Point, R. I.

A crash boat from the Air Force base rushed to the scene, as did the Coast Guard cutter Cook Inlet.

Monmouth Visit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), accompanied by Secretary of the Army Stevens, will visit the Army's Ft. Monmouth, N. J., signal center tomorrow to prepare the way for further investigations of an alleged radar spy ring.

McCarthy, whose Senate investigations subcommittee is looking into reported security leaks at Monmouth's Signal Corps laboratories, told reporters he and Stevens will personally inspect security subcommittee there.

The subcommittee has conducted closed hearings in New York and McCarthy said a similar session will be held Thursday either at Ft. Monmouth or New York.

McCarthy said he also plans to visit David Greenglass, convicted atom spy, at the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., some time after Thursday's hearing. Testimony so far, McCarthy has said, tends to link the alleged radar spy ring to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed atom spies with whom Greenglass was associated.

Envoy Is Wed

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—John J. Muccio, U. S. ambassador in Seoul at the outbreak of the Korean war, was married today to Miss Sheila McCulloch of Alexandria, Va.

Muccio, 53, met his bride, 29, about a year ago when she was an employee of the U. S. embassy in Tokyo.

'Loophole' Aids Government
Workers Evade Income Tax

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del.) said today an estimated 25,000 federal employees are evading payment of income taxes and the government is powerless to collect from them.

Some of the tax dodgers, Williams said, work in the Treasury Department itself.

Terming it "a shocking and disgraceful situation," Williams said in a statement he will ask Congress to enact corrective legislation when the lawmakers return in January.

The Delaware senator, who has long been conducting a one-man checkup of tax frauds, said the 25,000 federal workers have found a "loophole" enabling them to comply with the law technically by filing their income tax returns, but then refusing to pay the taxes due.

U. N. Security
Group Approves
Lodge's Motion

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The Security Council approved today a U. S. motion by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., requesting a full report from the U. N. truce supervisor on recent acts of violence between Israel and neighboring Arab states.

The Council has not yet formally put this new crisis in Palestine on its agenda. But the request was dispatched anyway for Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike of Denmark, chief of staff of the U. N. truce supervision organization in Palestine, to fly here and tell the Council about the latest events.

The Council will meet again tomorrow to settle how the question shall be listed on the agenda. It is not expected to hear Bennike until late in the week.

The United States, Britain and France called the Council into an urgent session today. They had sharply denounced an Israeli attack last Wednesday on the Jordan border village of Kibya. The Jordan government reported 86 Arabs were killed and 9 wounded.

Israel claimed tension in the area was Jordan's fault and began steps for an inquiry into all border incidents since the 1949 Israel-Arab armistice agreements took effect. The United States, meanwhile, notified Israel it will withhold American financial aid until the Israeli government stops trying to divert the Jordan River along the Syrian frontier. Syria has complained this diversion to the Security Council and that complaint is slated to be heard Thursday.

Daughter Subs
For Ailing Speaker

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer of the United States, was unable to address the National Safety Congress today but supplied a pinch speaker—her 17-year-old daughter, Patricia.

Spokesmen said Mrs. Priest could not appear because of illness.

Patricia said a lady should "try at least as hard to make her home safe as she does to play a good game of bridge or bake a good batch of biscuits."

Vaporized Oil
Caused Blast

BOSTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—A high-ranking Navy officer tonight confirmed the deduction of Capt. Thomas A. Ahron that an explosion of vaporized catapult hydraulic oil was the cause of a blast which killed 36 and injured dozens of others aboard the aircraft carrier Leyte last Friday.

Vice Adm. John J. Ballentine, commander of the air arm of Atlantic Fleet, came here from his headquarters at Norfolk, Va., to make a personal survey of the blasted and burned forward end of the carrier.

He told a news conference that "it is obvious to me that the hydraulic fluid used in the catapult was somehow voided and converted into an explosive mixture."

Ballentine discounted suggestions that the blast may have been caused by a saboteur.

He said nine men killed in the vicinity of the catapult room, the center of the blast and fire, were the top catapult experts of the Leyte and from the Boston naval shipyard. The ship was first big carrier assigned to "hunter-killer" anti-submarine warfare.

Earlier Capt. Ahron, who took command of the Leyte only three weeks ago, testified before a Navy board of inquiry that it was his opinion that the hydraulic fluid, pumped to a high pressure, somehow leaked out of the machinery "through a pinhole" which atomized it into an explosive vapor. He requested the court to seek tests of his theory.

Reds Approve
Meeting With
U. S. EnvoysCommunists To Insist
On Discussion Of All
Nations To Attend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO, Tuesday, Oct. 20 (AP)—The Communists yesterday agreed to meet with a U. S. envoy next Monday at Panmunjom to arrange for the Korean peace conference, originally scheduled to begin Oct. 28.

But in accepting, the Communists in a note broadcast by Peiping radio once more insisted on discussing which nations shall attend. This is the very issue that has balked all efforts to get the momentous sessions started.

Goes To Panmunjom

A U. S. spokesman said the United Nations said the U. S. representative, Arthur Dean, would fly to Panmunjom later this week for the talks. Dean, special State Department consultant, will be accompanied by a half dozen advisers and will pick up others in Tokyo and Seoul.

The United States, after consulting its allies in the Korean War, sent the Communists a note last week proposing a meeting at Panmunjom to select a time and place for the peace conference.

The U. S. note said the Allies would be ready to discuss the question of neutrals attending the peace conference "to the extent consistent with" previous decisions made by the United Nations.

The Communists want Russia, India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma to attend. The United States would agree only to Russia, and then only if the Soviets were invited by Red China and North Korea. The United Nations backed the United States.

Thus it appeared likely that the Panmunjom meeting would bog down in an argument over the neutral nation question.

In yesterday's note, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China made clear he believed the question of neutrals participating was more important than settling the time and place.

He said that his government "deems that in these (Panmunjom) discussions there could be included the settlement of the place and time, but that 'what is more essential, these discussions should settle the question of composition of the political (peace) conference.'"

Indian sources at the United Nations said the U. S. note's neutrality to a discussion of the neutral nation question—even though it showed no sign of a weakening of the U. S. attitude—was a strong factor in Peiping's agreeing to go to Panmunjom.

A high Western diplomat at the United Nations declared the U. S. note as phrased did not bar a discussion at Panmunjom of the neutral nation issue.

U.S., Mexico Presidents Dedicate Dam

Falcon Dam Described Five-Mile Long Link Between Countries

FALCON DAM, Oct. 19 (AP) — The Presidents of the United States and Mexico dedicated five-mile long Falcon Dam today as a mighty link in the friendship between their nations.

They met atop the dam at the sun-drenched border about one third of the way over from the United States bank of the Rio Grande, the river which separates Texas and Mexico.

President Eisenhower called the stark gray dam "living testimony of the understanding and the cooperation binding our two peoples."

Source Of Prosperity

In Spanish, President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines replied that the dam is "above all a source of prosperity for a vast group of human beings — men, women and children — without distinction of nationality, race, language or religion."

The gigantic 39 million dollar dam on which the Presidents met is the joint product of the United States and Mexican governments and is the first of three such Rio Grande dams which will irrigate the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas, impound flood waters and churn out electric power for a whole surrounding region. The dam is between Mission and Laredo, Tex.

Thousands from both sides of the Rio Grande border greeted the President. He and the Mexican President viewed a fiesta — dancing girls, singing cowboys, the Mexican National Symphony Orchestra — at the spanking new Mexican village of Nuevo Guerrero before the dedication.

The bright and shining village replaced an old town inundated by the waters backed up behind Falcon Dam.

Generates Electricity

Two powerhouses of the dam will generate more than 2½ million kilowatt hours of electricity a year. This will be split evenly between the two nations.

The government-built town of Nuevo Guerrero, where the Presidents first met today, was ready for displaced people to move into its modern, brick and masonry houses and shops.

The Texans who live in Lopeno, Falcon and Zapata in Texas still are building their new towns, and some are living in tents in the meantime.

Randall Called Meek, Passive Helper In Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Eric Preston Randall was described at his murder trial today as a "passive homosexual" who "even if he were normal couldn't have done anything with a gun staring him in the face."

Defense Attorney Earl I. Rosenthal painted this picture of the 26-year-old defendant charged with Army Sgt. 1-c Richard M. Elkins in the fatal shooting of John Metzger.

At the start of the trial in Criminal Court, Rosenthal cast Randall in the role of a "meek, submissive" helper who had no hand in the killing until after the actual shooting.

"Elkins is the man who did the shooting," said Rosenthal. "The State concedes this."

He said Randall merely sat by while Elkins shot Metzger in the victim's parked automobile on the southwest edge of Baltimore. Metzger's body was discovered last June, about a week after the killing. Several days later Randall and Elkins were arrested at Chatham, Va.

State's Attorney John E. Raine Jr. told the jury of eight men and four housewives the slaying was part of a "common effort" by both men.

Raine said Randall was under indictment at the time for a "minor crime" and wanted to leave with Elkins. He said they had no car so they asked Metzger to take them.

When Metzger refused, said the prosecutor, he was murdered.

Human Tissue Put In Corner Stone Of Medical Building

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Reporter WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Human tissue will literally be built into the foundation of a new Armed Forces research building dedicated primarily to improving the health of the American soldier, it was learned today.

Grim mementoes of two wars almost a century apart—a piece of bone from the amputated limb of a Civil War soldier and a piece of radiation-damaged lung tissue from a Japanese casualty of the A-bombing of Hiroshima—will be among a variety of symbolic objects deposited tomorrow at the cornerstone laying of the new Armed Forces Institute of Pathology (AFIP).

Near Walter Reed

The projected $7,130,000 eight-story structure is being built at the Army medical center near Walter Reed Army hospital, a few miles from downtown Washington. It is scheduled for completion in April, 1954. It will replace an older structure downtown where for many years military scientists have been working "to discover and define disease processes suspected or known to impair the health and efficiency of the military forces."

As in the past, one of the chief functions of the scientists in the new building will be to examine samples of human tissue sent in from military posts "from Boston to Bombay" as part of a program for aiding diagnosis, treatment and understanding of various diseases.

In the new building, facilities will be available whereby a sample of tissue taken from a patient on an operating table at Walter

Reed hospital can be sent by pneumatic tube to the pathology laboratories so that the pathologists can observe the surgeons operating.

Outgrowth Of Museum

The institute actually is an outgrowth of the original Army Medical Museum, established during Civil War days "to house specimens of wounds and diseases with the view of reducing mortality and suffering among soldiers."

Through the years, specimens ranging from tomahawk wounds of the Indian wars to samples of bone and other tissues from famous — and infamous — Americans have been placed on public exhibit there.

Under present plans, only the museum objects consigned to the cornerstone will be moved to the new quarters.

Other objects like a piece of the spine of John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin; a piece of the backbone of President Garfield; the spleen of the latter's assassin, Charles Guiteau; and the cast of the fractured arm of the missionary explorer, Livingstone, will remain in museum headquarters downtown, where tourists may view them.

Two Baltimore Policemen Suspended

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Two policemen suspended during the past week were charged today with bringing discredit on the police department.

Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said Patrolman Jerome Glass of Northern District will receive a hearing at 2 p.m. tomorrow on a charge of bringing discredit on the department by accepting a $50 retainer to obtain evidence to be used in a divorce case.

Patrolman Willard W. Scroggs will appear before the commissioner at 10 a.m. Wednesday on a similar charge involving making an improper loan of $3,000 last month from an elderly druggist.

Father And Son Held In Robbery

FAYETTESVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (AP) — The FBI today charged a Nebraska father and his son with using force and violence to take $6,721 from the bank of Kingston, Ark., Oct. 15.

U. S. Commissioner Clifton Wade did not set a date for arraignment.

The defendants are Ora Knight, 47, and George Wayne Knight, 22, who told officers they were from Nebraska but refused to say from what place.

The men were captured less than two hours after the bank holdup, in which cashier Wilson Bunch was left tied with baling wire.

Officers recovered only $2,544 of the $7,155 reported stolen.

U.N. Group Rejects Appeal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — The U.N. Political Committee today rejected an Asian-Arab appeal that it call on France to grant full independence to Morocco within five years.

The vote in the 60-nation body was 22 in favor, 28 opposed and 9 abstentions.

It came on a resolution sponsored by 13 Asian-Arab countries aiming at independence for France's North African protectorate.

France has boycotted committee meetings on Morocco to bolster her claim that the U.N. has no business interfering. No French delegate was present when the independence move was beaten.

The Soviet bloc stood with the Asian-Arabs, but they failed to get the Latin-American votes which they sought and which might have brought victory.

Both Britain and the United States lined up against the resolution.

FBI Reports Discrepancies In Kidnaping Case

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19 (AP) — The policeman whose work led to the solution of the Greenlease kidnaping case today became the central figure himself in an inquiry into reports the FBI has discovered discrepancies in police accounts of the case.

The investigation conducted by police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell centered around the handling of two suitcases in which nearly half of the $600,000 ransom payment was recovered. Some $300,000 of the payment still is missing.

Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, who arrested the kidnap-killer of Bobby Greenlease, was under a physician's care for a nervous condition and was reported unable to appear at this time at the closed hearing.

Shoulders, whose ailment was attributed by the physician to the lieutenant's work on the case, withheld from newsmen a full explanation of the reported discrepancies, but said:

"I can explain to the proper authorities every move I made."

Shoulders was excused from questioning today as the police chief began the investigation ordered by the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners.

The first to be questioned was Patrolman Elmer Dolan, who accompanied Shoulders the night of Oct. 6 when they arrested Carl Austin Hall, 34, the confessed killer of the 6-year-old boy. Dolan was questioned for several hours.

The arrest of Hall and his partner in the crime, Mrs. Bonnie

Brown Hady, 41, followed a tip Hager that Hall was armed and to Shoulders by taxi driver John spending money on a lavish scale.

The projected $7,130,000 eight-story structure is being built at the Army medical center near Walter Reed Army hospital, a few miles from downtown Washington. It is scheduled for completion in April, 1954. It will replace an older structure downtown where for many years military scientists have been working "to discover and define disease processes suspected or known to impair the health and efficiency of the military forces."

As in the past, one of the chief functions of the scientists in the new building will be to examine samples of human tissue sent in from military posts "from Boston to Bombay" as part of a program for aiding diagnosis, treatment and understanding of various diseases.

In the new building, facilities will be available whereby a sample of tissue taken from a patient on an operating table at Walter

Reed hospital can be sent by pneumatic tube to the pathology laboratories so that the pathologists can observe the surgeons operating.

Outgrowth Of Museum

The institute actually is an outgrowth of the original Army Medical Museum, established during Civil War days "to house specimens of wounds and diseases with the view of reducing mortality and suffering among soldiers."

Through the years, specimens ranging from tomahawk wounds of the Indian wars to samples of bone and other tissues from famous — and infamous — Americans have been placed on public exhibit there.

Under present plans, only the museum objects consigned to the corner stone will be moved to the new quarters.

Other objects like a piece of the spine of John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin; a piece of the backbone of President Garfield; the spleen of the latter's assassin, Charles Guiteau; and the cast of the fractured arm of the missionary explorer, Livingstone, will remain in museum headquarters downtown, where tourists may view them.

Two Baltimore Policemen Suspended

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Two policemen suspended during the past week were charged today with bringing discredit on the police department.

Police Commissioner Beverly Ober said Patrolman Jerome Glass of Northern District will receive a hearing at 2 p.m. tomorrow on a charge of bringing discredit on the department by accepting a $50 retainer to obtain evidence to be used in a divorce case.

Patrolman Willard W. Scroggs will appear before the commissioner at 10 a.m. Wednesday on a similar charge involving making an improper loan of $3,000 last month from an elderly druggist.

Father And Son Held In Robbery

FAYETTESVILLE, Ark., Oct. 19 (AP)—The FBI today charged a Nebraska father and his son with using force and violence to take $6,721 from the bank of Kingston, Ark., Oct. 15.

U. S. Commissioner Clifton Wade did not set a date for arraignment. The defendants are Ora Knight, 47, and George Wayne Knight, 22, who told officers they were from Nebraska but refused to say from what place.

The men were captured less than two hours after the bank holdup, in which cashier Wilson Bunch was left tied with baling wire.

Officers recovered only $2,544 of the $7,155 reported stolen.

U.N. Group Rejects Appeal

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The U.N. Political Committee today rejected an Asian-Arab appeal that it call on France to grant full independence to Morocco within five years.

The vote in the 60-nation body was 22 in favor, 28 opposed and 9 abstentions.

It came on a resolution sponsored by 13 Asian-Arab countries aiming at independence for France's North African protectorate.

France has boycotted committee meetings on Morocco to bolster her claim that the U.N. has no business interfering. No French delegate was present when the independence move was beaten.

The Soviet bloc stood with the Asian-Arabs, but they failed to get the Latin-American votes which they sought and which might have brought victory.

Both Britain and the United States lined up against the resolution.

FBI Reports Discrepancies In Kidnaping Case

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—The policeman whose work led to the solution of the Greenlease kidnaping case today became the central figure himself in an inquiry into reports the FBI has discovered discrepancies in police accounts of the case.

The investigation conducted by police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell centered around the handling of two suitcases in which nearly half of the $600,000 ransom payment was recovered. Some $300,000 of the payment still is missing.

Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, who arrested the kidnap-killer of Bobby Greenlease, was under a physician's care for a nervous condition and was reported unable to appear at this time at the closed hearing.

Shoulders, whose ailment was attributed by the physician to the lieutenant's work on the case, withheld from newsmen a full explanation of the reported discrepancies, but said:

"I can explain to the proper authorities every move I made."

Shoulders was excused from questioning today as the police chief began the investigation ordered by the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners.

The first to be questioned was Patrolman Elmer Dolan, who accompanied Shoulders the night of Oct. 6 when they arrested Carl Austin Hall, 34, the confessed killer of the 6-year-old boy. Dolan was questioned for several hours.

The arrest of Hall and his partner in the crime, Mrs. Bonnie

Brown Heady, 41, followed a tip Hager that Hall was armed and to Shoulders by taxi driver John spending money on a lavish scale.

Randall Called Meek, Passive Helper In Murder

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Eric Preston Randall was described at his murder trial today as a "passive homosexual" who "even if he were normal couldn't have done anything with a gun staring him in the face."

Defense Attorney Earl I. Rosenthal painted this picture of the 26-year-old defendant charged with Army Sgt. 1-c Richard M. Elkins in the fatal shooting of John Metzger.

At the start of the trial in Criminal Court, Rosenthal cast Randall in the role of a "meek, submissive" helper who had no hand in the killing until after the actual shooting.

"Elkins is the man who did the shooting," said Rosenthal. "The State concedes this."

He said Randall merely sat by while Elkins shot Metzger in the victim's parked automobile on the southwest edge of Baltimore. Metzger's body was discovered last June, about a week after the killing. Several days later Randall and Elkins were arrested at Chatham, Va.

State's Attorney John E. Raine Jr. told the jury of eight men and four housewives the slaying was part of a "common effort" by both men.

Raine said Randall was under indictment at the time for a "minor crime" and wanted to leave with Elkins. He said they had no car so they asked Metzger to take them.

When Metzger refused, said the prosecutor, he was murdered.

Youngsters Today Are Nature Lovers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Nature! That's what the youngsters of today are interested in. Sure, they still like shoot-'em-up cowboy stuff and assorted blood and thunder. But if that cowboy is smart, he will hock his six-shooters, sell his horse and start telling nature stories.

The backwoods advice comes from a pleasant looking television actor of 28 named Billy Johnson. He's a former hillbilly singer from Mount Sterling, Ky., who now has the job of keeping some 100,000 tots entertained for an hour each day. He mixes in cartoons and songs, but mainly he goes in heavily for nature.

Becomes Very Popular

And what do the kids think of all this?

"I began the show in March,"

Johnson said, "and it took only three weeks for it to become the most popular of all locally produced shows."

"I don't understand these ratings, but anyway they figure that 114,000 kids watch me each day. And in comparison with all daily shows, wherever they're produced, I rank third."

"Perry Como and Howdy Doody are ahead of me, but"—and here a look of pleased bewilderment crossed his face—"I'm beating Arthur Godfrey in his home town."

Obviously nature is hot stuff. Johnson may be the only television entertainer in history who does most of his homework with the forestry and wildlife services. And it's here he digs up such nuggets as:

"Do you know an otter makes an ideal pet? The reason is, it never has had to worry much about its food. So it plays all day long. That's all it does. If you ever get one, put it in the bathtub and it will have a heck of a good time."

"One time a rabbit just looked at us while we looked at him."

Any cowboy actor should see the writing on the Canyon wall. Drop that pistol, pardner. W. and them rabbits are a-goin' to look at one another.

Judge Voids U.S. Citizenship

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Charles Anthony Tuteur today lost his United States citizenship — because he once neglected to point out he read Communist literature.

Judge Michael L. Igce issued a summary judgment in U. S. District Court voiding Tuteur's 1943 naturalization on the ground that he withheld information from immigration authorities.

Tuteur, a 38-year-old leather worker, said in his citizenship application that his reading included Life, Time and Look magazines, two daily newspapers and a union publication.

Anthony Sciarano, Asst. U. S. atty. charged that Tuteur received Soviet embassy information bulletins, the People's New World and the New Masses regularly at that time.

Tuteur said he was born in Cologne, Germany, and came to the United States in October, 1940. His citizenship application was based upon his marriage to a United States citizen. His wife, Muriel, 31, is a former Wac.

Martin Van Buren was the first President born in the United States.

Man Saves Boy From Water, Gets Soaked Two Ways

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—James L. Winkler got soaked in two ways. One of five negro boys scuffling on the banks of the Mississippi fell into the river yesterday.

Winkler took off his shirt and plunged in to rescue the struggling boy.

Winkler reported to police the other boys took a wallet from his shirt pocket and made off with $50.

When Winkler reached shore, the boy he had rescued ran after his companions, without pausing to thank Winkler.

Youngsters Today Are Nature Lovers

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Nature! That's what the youngsters of today are interested in. Sure, they still like shoot-'em-up cowboy stuff and assorted blood and thunder. But if that cowboy is smart, he will hock his six-shooters, sell his horse and start telling nature stories.

The backwoods advice comes from a pleasant looking television actor of 28 named Billy Johnson. He's a former hillbilly singer from Mount Sterling, Ky., who now has the job of keeping some 100,000 tots entertained for an hour each day. He mixes in cartoons and songs, but mainly he goes in heavily for nature.

Johnson said, "and it took only three weeks for it to become the most popular of all locally produced shows."

"I don't understand these ratings, but anyway they figure that 114,000 kids watch me each day. And in comparison with all daily shows, wherever they're produced, I rank third."

"Perry Como and Howdy Doodie are ahead of me, but"—and here a look of pleased bewilderment crossed his face—"I'm beating Arthur Godfrey in his home town."

Obviously nature is hot stuff. Johnson may be the only television entertainer in history who does most of his homework with the forsy and wildlife services. And it's here he digs up such nuggets as:

"Do you know an otter makes an ideal pet? The reason is, it never has had to worry much about its food. So it plays all day long. That's all it does. If you ever get one, put it in the bathtub and it will have a heck of a good time."

time sliding down the sides. Loyal and lovable, too.

"Me?" Oh, no, I don't have one. The only pet we have is a hound dog named Boots."

Frankness Is Hazard

Johnson is well aware that life in the woods isn't all peaches and cream, that animals have to prey on one another to live.

"But I think the kids will find that out soon enough. In my show there's never a shot fired, and no one ever dies."

One hazard of working with children is their frankness. His two chief critics are the Johnson youngsters, Teresa Marie who is 5, and Billy who is 2. "When I'm off the beam," he said, "I hear about it."

But he also gets notes like this one from Randy Simpson of Arlington, Va.: "When my daddy and I go to the woods we sit quiet and listen. Pretty soon all the birds and the animals forget we are there and they talk to each other."

"One time a rabbit just looked at us while we looked at him." Any cowboy actor should see the writing on the Canyon wall. Drop that pistol, pardner. W. and them rabbits are a-goin' to look at one another.

Judge Voids U.S. Citizenship

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Charles Anthony Tuteur today lost his United States citizenship — because he once neglected to point out he read Communist literature.

Judge Michael L. Igce issued a summary judgment in U. S. District Court voiding Tuteur's 1943 naturalization on the ground that he withheld information from immigration authorities.

Tuteur, a 38-year-old leather worker, said in his citizenship application that his reading included Life, Time and Look magazines, two daily newspapers and a union publication.

Anthony Sciarano, Asst. U. S. atty., charged that Tuteur received Soviet embassy information bulletins, the People's New World and the New Masses regularly at that time.

Tuteur said he was born in Cologne, Germany, and came to the United States in October, 1940. His citizenship application was based upon his marriage to a United States citizen. His wife, Muriel, 31, is a former Wac.

Martin Van Buren was the first President born in the United States.

Man Saves Boy From Water, Gets Soaked Two Ways

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—James L. Winkler got soaked in two ways. One of five negro boys scuffling on the banks of the Mississippi fell into the river yesterday. Winkler took off his shirt and plunged in to rescue the struggling boy.

Winkler reported to police the other boys took a wallet from his shirt pocket and made off with $50.

When Winkler reached shore, the boy he had rescued ran after his companions, without pausing to thank Winkler.

Trieste And Italian Peace

Russia may be on good legal grounds, technically, in arguing that the United States and Britain have no right to surrender in favor of Italy, their administration of Zone A in the Trieste Territory. The present setup there is prescribed in the 1947 peace treaty with Italy, signed by 20 states including Russia, four Russian satellites, Yugoslavia.

What right, asks the Kremlin, have two signatories to a treaty to disregard it without assent of the others? Also, the treaty states: "Italian sovereignty over the area comprising the Free Territory of Trieste . . . shall be terminated with the coming into force of the present treaty."

On the other hand, Washington and London can point out that the Soviet Union, also Yugoslavia, have on their side violated certain treaty terms. The treaty on their side violated certain treaty implicitly, to support Italy's bid for membership in the U. N. Yet Italy's bid has been blocked by a Soviet veto in the Security Council. And Yugoslavia has administered Zone B of the Trieste Territory in ways forbidden by the treaty.

In the treaty's provisions for permanent status of Trieste, much authority was to adhere in the governor. This official was to be named by the U. N. Security Council, which for five years has disagreed on a choice.

The Americans and British argue that the disagreement has been due to Soviet recalcitrance. The Russian note of October 12 argues that the disagreement has been due entirely to American-British recalcitrance. At all events, as long as no governor could be chosen and the contemplated central parliament could not be elected, the territory had to continue under a status that the treaty stipulates as temporary. So in actuality the Trieste part of the treaty has become a dead letter.

Yugoslavia did all right for itself under the peace treaty, and at Italy's expense. Rome ceded to Belgrade outright much of the hinterland of the Trieste Territory, and the Territory itself was created out of an area formerly Italian. Yugoslavia got the cities of Fiume and Zara, also former Italian islands in the Adriatic.

Although Zone 8, placed under Yugoslav administration, contained only about one-fourth the population of Zone A, in size it is more than twice Zone A. Italy was required to demolish fortifications along its side of the Yugoslav frontier, and was forbidden to erect new ones which could be used "for weapons capable of firing into Yugoslav territory or territorial waters."

So, inasmuch as Yugoslavia was still within the Soviet orbit when the peace treaty with Italy was signed, the Allies could say they were generous to the Yugoslavs. Yet they could say also they were not ungenerous to the Italians, in view of the fact that Italy was the ally of Nazi Germany for the first four years of World War II, even if in 1943 it did overthrow Mussolini and then declare war on Germany.

When the peace treaty with Italy came before the U. S. Senate for a vote on June 5, 1947, only 10 votes were cast against ratification. Every senator with relatively many constituents of Italian stock voted to ratify.

Not All Red Ink

In deepest secrecy, and in a tearing rush, the U. S. Air Force ordered five bases built along the Atlantic Coast of French North Africa in the fall of 1950. It was feared that the Russians were about to start a shooting war and the bases were to be a springboard for a retaliatory blow.

The job was supposed to have cost $150,000,000, then the figure was upped to $200,000,000, and so on. Civilian contractors were told just to get paving down. Then the Air Force and the Army engineers started wrangling and changing plans, the French government became difficult, and the whole thing nearly came unglued.

Affairs are straightened out now, but the bases will cost approximately $750,000,000 before the job is completed.

It has been generally conceded that when the Defense Department gets into the real estate and construction business the example set is how not to do it. Private industry operating in the same manner wouldn't last a week. But once in a while the military does fall flat but comes up with pieces of gold clinging to its uniforms. In fairness to the military, such instances ought to see the light of day.

Not long ago the military disposed of an entire town in Mississippi for $28,000. It had been built at a cost of $1,500,000. But what's this? The government bought an entire beach in Hawaii during the war for $750,000. With a big land boom on in Hawaii, the property was disposed of to private interests recently for $10,000,000. Of course, many deals such as this would be required to take up the slack of such financial bobbles as the North African bases, but it is good to know that there is some inconsistency, and that the ink that goes in the federal books isn't all red.

Handy Hints

A little booklet entitled "Household Tips" being distributed by a bank in Rhode Island is a sort of anachronism in these days of high-powered advertising of all sorts of devices and preparations touted as "New!" or even "Revolutionary!" because it seems to assume that old ways are best after all.

In the 303 listed hints and tips there is not so much as a single mention of electricity as a labor-saving aid.

Even a quick perusal of the booklet will show that the housewife can keep all odors and stains under control with a few fundamental standbys like salt, white of egg, lemon juice, raw potato and vinegar.

The wise woman will, of course, keep a jar of unslacked lime handy. To quote Tip No. 69: "Tinware will never rust if well rubbed with lard and then with common unslacked lime."

Want to clean a black leather handbag? That's easy, the book says. Just rub with a mixture of one teaspoon of sweet oil and two teaspoons of milk, winding up by polishing with a "good grade of furniture polish."

No. 107 would seem to cut the ground from under any high-falutin' new patent stuff for cleaning wallpaper. Just "dust it thoroughly, then rub down evenly with bread, changing the bread as it becomes soiled." And another: "Grease the lips of the cream or milk pitcher with butter to prevent the drip."

For white enamelware the sensible cleaner is baking soda and rainwater. And "a tablespoon of turpentine boiled with the clothes will make them snowy white." And if there is danger of the clothes freezing to the clothesline, "boil the rope for half an hour in salt water—and the clothespins, too." But what if the clothesline is wire?

How To Keep Well

Drug Treatment Of Tuberculosis

Eighteen years ago a 20 year old mother came to our hospital with tuberculosis of the bones of the foot. There was nothing to do except amputate. She ultimately obtained an artificial limb and has rehabilitated herself despite the handicap. Today our new drugs take the place of amputation and had they been available at that time, this woman would not have lost her foot.

The antituberculous agents, streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid, are not as good as the original news releases on their introduction led us to believe, nor are they as useless as the medical pessimists predicted. The main objection to these products is that after a certain length of time tubercle bacilli become resistant and no longer are affected by the action of the drugs. Resistance occurs sooner when they are used alone but is delayed when combinations are employed. In this respect, treatment is a matter of chance as the die is cast after the remedy is given. There is no way of predicting whether or not the drug will kill the organisms and lead to cure or whether resistance will develop so that the disease remains unchanged.

Tests have shown that the combination of streptomycin and isoniazid appears to be most effective. After 28 weeks of treatment in cases of active tuberculosis, one-half of the patients taking isoniazid alone had tubercle bacilli in the sputum. On the other hand, only one-third of those who received a combination of streptomycin and PAS and one-quarter of those who took streptomycin and isoniazid had a positive sputum. These statistics tend to show the streptomycin-isoniazid combination is best and isoniazid alone is least helpful in ridding sputum of tuberculous germs.

After the remedy is administered, many victims of tuberculosis notice improvement in strength, appetite, and cough. Fever has a tendency to subside and weight to increase. X-ray improvements are not so impressive and in a series of 20 patients, for example, 11 showed only slight evidence of transient or permanent improvement after the first course of treatment.

How does isoniazid influence the tubercle bacillus? The answer is not known although the most plausible theory is that the drug interferes with the germ's metabolism, thereby robbing it of a substance essential for growth and development. The effect is not noted immediately because the bacillus continues to multiply until the population has approximately doubled, at which point lack of this essential substance is felt most. So many bacilli are present to share this metabolite that the amount for each is reduced below the critical level necessary for further division. When this stage is reached they starve to death.

These modern chemicals are worth while in other types of tuberculosis including that of the skin, kidneys, larynx, sinuses, ears, and joints. Even the miliary form in which the organisms invade the blood stream has responded. Improvement also occurs in tubercular meningitis where the membranes surrounding the brain are attacked. This is remarkable because prior to streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid, victims of this type of tuberculosis usually died within three weeks after the appearance of the first symptoms.

INFLAMMATION AND REMOVAL
Mrs. W. writes: My sister had her gall bladder removed recently and the chart said "cholecystitis and cholecystectomy." Does this mean she had two operations? She had 22 stitches.

REPLY
No. Chole (bile), cyst (bladder), and its (inflammation) means inflammation of the gall bladder; and chole (bile), cyst (bladder), and ectomy (excision) means removal of the gall bladder.

ALLERGY AND EDEMA
D. L. writes: Are the symptoms of allergy the same as those of edema?

REPLY
Some forms of allergy produce edema such as hives on the skin and angioneurotic edema which causes puffiness of the face and other tissues. This edema is not as massive as that which develops in the legs, thighs, and abdomen in victims of heart disease or the leg swelling in elephantiasis and milk leg.

DARKENED SKIN
J. writes: I fell and cut my left leg, and after the wound healed the skin never went back to its normal color. Is this unusual?

REPLY
Yes, but the phenomenon is noted now and then after lacerations, cuts, contusions, and burns. It occurs most frequently in dark skinned persons, and apparently results from an associated damage of the blood and nerve supply.

FUNNEL CHEST
D. E. writes: What would cause a depression, or hole, just below the breastbone?

REPLY
The individual is born with a defect in the breastbone. The condition need cause no concern unless the bone is so depressed it displaces the heart.

200 Cigars Helped To Bring Ike To Defiance; Conservation Leaders Boil; Milton Eisenhower Favors Giving Land-Grant College Soil-Conservation Job

EN ROUTE THROUGH THE MIDDLE WEST—There was a special reason why President Eisenhower stopped at The Defiance College in Defiance, Ohio, en route to the Mexican border. That reason had to do with 200 special cigars in the glass containers prepared by the American Tobacco Company and labeled "Defiance Welcomes the Eisenhowers, September, 1953."

Actually Ike got there in October, so the cigars weren't quite up to date. Nevertheless he got there. And the story behind all this is that Kevin McCann, president of The Defiance College—Dr. McCann insists upon the "the"—had obtained a promise from the President last summer that he would stop off at Defiance, O., en route home from Denver. Dr. McCann is

Ike's original biographer and wrote the book syndicated in many newspapers last year which helped to prepare for his nomination.

And having obtained the promise that Ike would stop over, McCann proceeded to get ready for him.

He spent $150 on a new cornerstone, raised a lot of money to extend the runways of the Defiance airport so Ike's big plane could land, and had the special cigars made for 200 guests. Furthermore, the City of Defiance turned out with gala decorations—when suddenly McCann got a wire from the President reading:

"Sorry we won't be able to stop at Defiance on way home, Kevin. We have to stop in Chicago to pick up the kids."

Ike referred to the fact that he had to pick up his grandchildren who were visiting in-laws at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

McCann got a bad razzing from the folks at Defiance, and for a time he didn't feel much like living there. However, he went to Washington, made a personal appeal to the President, and Ike finally decided to stop at Defiance in October, not September.

Boiling At Benson

If Secretary of Agriculture Benson had realized the political storm that was brewing in Wisconsin last week, he might not have announced his reorganization of the Agriculture Department on the date he did.

As it was, Benson popped his plan to lop off a lot of soil-conservation districts and abolish the Production and Marketing Administration, just as Wisconsin farmers were showing what they thought of Benson's policies.

Next day, however, some farm groups elsewhere in the nation were even more irate than those in Wisconsin—especially the National Association of Soil-Conservation Districts. In making its reorganization announcement, the Agriculture Department stated that the Soil-Conservation Association had been consulted in advance. But that didn't seem to quiet soil-conservation leaders.

"That's a lie," said Walter Davis of League City, Texas, president of the association. "We were not consulted."

"I got a telegram in Providence, R. I., instructing me to bring my board of directors to Washington for a meeting at 2 p. m., October 12," he explained. "This meant spending $6,000 for traveling expenses for 25 directors. Instead I brought in four leading directors, all of whom voted for Eisenhower. But we were given no chance to discuss the reorganization plan. The plan was all cut and dried. We were merely shown a copy of it."

Belligerent Conference

The soil-conservation leaders who came to Washington included Nolan Fuqua of Duncan, Okla.; George R. Heidrich, of Charleston, W. Va.; R. Edward Bauer of Van Meter, Iowa; and Francis Lindsay of Loomis, Calif. They conferred with Earl Coke of Davis, Calif., assistant secretary of Agriculture. All these men not only voted for Eisenhower but campaigned for him.

At the meeting, Davis, president of the association, asked: "Under your reorganization plan for soil conservation, what technical stations will the states have?" "We have not given that any study," replied Assistant Secretary Coke.

"What?" gasped Davis in astonishment. "Will you repeat that statement?"

"We have not given that any study," Coke replied.

Davis and his associates remarked that this meant that 1,000 highly trained technical experts on soil conservation would be fired, seven big regional offices would be disbanded, and yet no provision would be made for technical experts in the 48 states to replace them.

"How can you say this plan will provide better help when you haven't gone into any detail?" asked Fuqua of Oklahoma.

Coke declined to answer.

"Will the volunteer soil conservationists all over the country have a chance to argue about this plan?" asked Davis.

"We have no further plan for discussing the matter," replied the assistant secretary of Agriculture.

Milton Eisenhower Reverses

The soil-conservation leaders had plenty to say after the meeting.

"This," remarked Davis, "will force everyone with the slightest bit of soil conservation in his soul

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Syngman Rhee Speaking

SEOUL.
Syngman Rhee has said it before, but he is saying it now more flatly, firmly and frequently. He will renew the Korean War if his country has not been unified by a political conference or other means within three months time. He has the power to make good his threat, despite rather desperate American efforts to gain a hold on him. And his threat could hardly be more bluntly stated.

"Whether we win or lose, we have to fight to unify our country if that is the only way. That's all there is to it."

That was the Korean president's last statement, his final summing up, of a long and almost eerily dispassionate discussion of the situation in Korea. There was no possibility of mistaking what he said. The only question was whether he meant it. But the question was not easy to answer.

This strange and obstinate old man has a face like a pippin, pale golden, infinitely wrinkled, with little eyes like apples. He speaks unemotionally, in a thin, piping, but still musical voice. His surroundings are in the hideous false-western style that is the sure, distressing mark of executive pomp and power in the modern Orient. But in this setting, the small, gnarled, aged figure in an ill-fitting tweed suit seems distinctly out of place.

Fights For Cause

The contrast was really too extreme between the speaker, with his air of being a benevolent Korean professor emeritus, and his words, with their portent of war. But then one remembered how Rhee had submitted to torture and exile, how he had fought by fair means and foul, how he had intrigued and bullied and defied the world, and all in this same cause. One remembered too how this man who ought to be a puppet had made the American secretary of State dance like Pinocchio on the end of a string; how seriously he has impressed the highly astute American diplomatic and military representatives here in Korea; how these men have solemnly warned Washington that the old man may mean every word of it. And as he talked onwards, one had to admit there was a kind of logic, lunatic perhaps by some standards but not so lunatic by others, in this position Syngman Rhee has so defiantly taken.

"President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles told me they hoped that a political conference would bring good results," he said, with a thin smile. "I agreed to cooperate to the extent of waiting for 90 days beginning October 27. I don't regard myself as bound after that time."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt used to say that congressional elections are essentially "local," especially when a presidential nominee isn't running, and he lived to see the Democratic majority in Congress reduced even when he himself was running.

The special election in Wisconsin last week, in which a Democrat defeated a Republican for Congress, is being mistakenly interpreted as a sign that the Republican party in not as strong as Eisenhower. Actually, in 1950—before Ike ran—the Republicans captured 22 out of 26 governorships in the states outside the Solid South. In 1952, the Republican party again won governorships in nearly all the Northern States and the vote in several instances exceeded what Eisenhower got.

No Evidence In Statistics

There is no more illusory myth in politics than the claim about a presidential nominee being stronger than his own party in congressional elections just because his total vote is larger than the total vote for Congress. In every presidential election in the last half century the successful presidential nominee has run ahead of the congressional nominees except once, and that was in 1948 when the Democratic candidates for Congress generally ran ahead of President Truman. Very little was heard then about Mr. Truman being weaker than his party. The election statistics, usually compiled many months later, attracted very little attention and did not offset impressions of his political strength formed after election day in November 1948.

The latest statistics for the 1952 election, which have just been printed by order of the clerk of the House of Representatives, if examined carefully, show that there isn't the slightest evidence to prove Dwight Eisenhower to vote Democratic. It's the damndest thing any party ever pulled. It's strictly a payoff to Allan Kline of the Farm Bureau for supporting Eisenhower.

Waters Davis also told how he had gone to see Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, in the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, during last year's election campaign, at which time Milton had taken back the previous speech he made in Houston, Texas, proposing that soil conservation be spread out among the land-grant colleges and the 48 states.

"Milton told me," said Davis, "that he wished he had never given that speech. That was before the election."

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

But what of the political conference, he was asked. The answer was unequivocal. He doubts whether a conference will be held. If there is a conference he thinks it will produce no agreement "unless the United States surrenders everything to the Communists, which I do not think the United States will do." But what then, was the next question. The answer came quietly and without hesitation. "We have to unify Korea or we shall be destroyed in the end. If we are to be destroyed in any case, why not take our stand now with courage? We have no alternative. Divided we cannot survive. Could you survive with your body cut in half? They come to us and they say sweetly, 'Please, accept national death for the sake of world peace.' I say it is wrong in principle and in sentiment, and I will not do it. It would be worse, far worse, than Munich."

Believes In America
Rhee is convinced — or says he is — that there is an exact parallel between this episode of the tragic past and the events that are now unfolding. The truce, he insists, has settled nothing. The Asian power balance is growing worse. Ducking the issue now will only mean fighting later on more unfavorable terms.

The old man also feels or pretends confidence about what America will do if he orders reluctant yet obedient commanders of the ROK army to renew the Korean War. He is not exactly explicit, but he says quite enough to indicate that he believes America will have to do just about what the historians think Britain and France would have had to do if the Czechs had fought rather than be partitioned in 1938.

"I believe the American people will stand by us, whether they like it or not," he said. "The United States has a sense of honor. They started to help us. Will they drop us halfway? They will not buy a short-lived peace by sacrificing an ally. It is out of the question in my mind. For if peace is so sweet that everything is to be sacrificed to peace, the Soviets soon will have the one world which is their goal."

In West Virginia, even if former Senator Revercomb, Republican, had polled as many votes as Eisenhower got, he still would have been defeated by 50,000, which was the excess that Senator Kilgore, Democrat, got over Eisenhower.

Again in Vermont, as in Minnesota, the Republican senatorial nominee ran ahead of Eisenhower. Senator Flanders received nearly 2,000 votes more than Eisenhower.

In Kentucky, John Cooper, Republican, won the race for senator and Eisenhower lost the state.

In Delaware, Senator John J. Williams, Republican, ran about 3,000 votes ahead of Eisenhower, who also carried the state.

In Missouri, while Ike carried the state by 20,000 votes, Stuart Symington, Democrat, ran 49,000 votes ahead of Eisenhower.

In Rhode Island Senator Pastore, Democrat, ran 15,000 ahead of Eisenhower, who carried the state.

Vote Only For President
In many a state, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for senator or for Congress ran ahead of Stevenson but failed nevertheless to overcome the majority vote of the Republican nominee for Congress. Yet one hasn't heard much talk about Stevenson being weaker than his party.

The most interesting thing the statistics show—though it has happened in almost all elections heretofore—is that many voters of both parties do not take the trouble to vote for anyone except the presidential nominee, and in most states it isn't possible any more to make a single mark and vote for the entire ticket, whether it be Republican or Democratic.

The real answer is that no evidence exists to justify any inference that party strength nationally, as reflected in the votes for congressional candidates, has a significant relationship to the popularity or unpopularity of either the president in power or the presidential nominee who wins his own election.

Trieste And Italian Peace

Russia may be on good legal grounds, technically, in arguing that the United States and Britain have no right to surrender in favor of Italy, their administration of Zone A in the Trieste Territory. The present setup there is prescribed in the 1947 peace treaty with Italy, signed by 20 states including Russia, four Russian satellites, Yugoslavia.

What right, asks the Kremlin, have two signatories to a treaty to disregard it without assent of the others? Also, the treaty states: "Italian sovereignty over the area comprising the Free Territory of Trieste . . . shall be terminated with the coming into force of the present treaty."

On the other hand, Washington and London can point out that the Soviet Union, also Yugoslavia, have on their side violated certain treaty terms. The treaty on their side violated certain treaty implicitly, to support Italy's bid for membership in the U. N. Yet Italy's bid has been blocked by a Soviet veto in the Security Council. And Yugoslavia has administered Zone B of the Trieste Territory in ways forbidden by the treaty.

In the treaty's provisions for permanent status of Trieste, much authority was to adhere in the governor. This official was to be named by the U. N. Security Council, which for five years has disagreed on a choice.

The Americans and British argue that the disagreement has been due to Soviet recalcitrance. The Russian note of October 12 argues that the disagreement has been due entirely to American-British recalcitrance. At all events, as long as no governor could be chosen and the contemplated central parliament could not be elected, the territory had to continue under a status that the treaty stipulates as temporary. So in actuality the Trieste part of the treaty has become a dead letter.

Yugoslavia did all right for itself under the peace treaty, and at Italy's expense. Rome ceded to Belgrade outright much of the hinterland of the Trieste Territory, and the Territory itself was created out of an area formerly Italian. Yugoslavia got the cities of Fiume and Zara, also former Italian islands in the Adriatic.

Although Zone B, placed under Yugoslav administration, contained only about one-fourth the population of Zone A, in size it is more than twice Zone A. Italy was required to demolish fortifications along its side of the Yugoslav frontier, and was forbidden to erect new ones which could be used "for weapons capable of firing into Yugoslav territory or territorial waters."

So, inasmuch as Yugoslavia was still within the Soviet orbit when the peace treaty with Italy was signed, the Allies could say they were generous to the Yugoslavs. Yet they could say also they were not ungenerous to the Italians, in view of the fact that Italy was the ally of Nazi Germany for the first four years of World War II, even if in 1943 it did overthrow Mussolini and then declare war on Germany.

When the peace treaty with Italy came before the U. S. Senate for a vote on June 5, 1947, only 10 votes were cast against ratification. Every senator with relatively many constituents of Italian stock voted to ratify.

Not All Red Ink

In deepest secrecy, and in a tearing rush, the U. S. Air Force ordered five bases built along the Atlantic Coast of French North Africa in the fall of 1950. It was feared that the Russians were about to start a shooting war and the bases were to be a springboard for a retaliatory blow.

The job was supposed to have cost $150,000,000, then the figure was upped to $200,000,000, and so on. Civilian contractors were told just to get paving down. Then the Air Force and the Army engineers started wrangling and changing plans, the French government became difficult, and the whole thing nearly came unglued.

Affairs are straightened out now, but the bases will cost approximately $750,000,000 before the job is completed.

It has been generally conceded that when the Defense Department gets into the real estate and construction business the example set is how not to do it. Private industry operating in the same manner wouldn't last a week. But once in a while the military does fall flat but comes up with pieces of gold clinging to its uniforms. In fairness to the military, such instances ought to see the light of day.

Not long ago the military disposed of an entire town in Mississippi for $28,000. It had been built at a cost of $1,500,000. But what's this? The government bought an entire beach in Hawaii during the war for $750,000. With a big land boom on in Hawaii, the property was disposed of to private interests recently for $10,000,000. Of course, many deals such as this would be required to take up the slack of such financial bobbles as the North African bases, but it is good to know that there is some inconsistency, and that the ink that goes in the federal books isn't all red.

Handy Hints

A little booklet entitled "Household Tips" being distributed by a bank in Rhode Island is a sort of anachronism in these days of high-powered advertising of all sorts of devices and preparations touted as "New!" or even "Revolutionary!" because it seems to assume that old ways are best after all.

In the 303 listed hints and tips there is not so much as a single mention of electricity as a labor-saving aid.

Even a quick perusal of the booklet will show that the housewife can keep all odors and stains under control with a few fundamental standbys like salt, white of egg, lemon juice, raw potato and vinegar.

The wise woman will, of course, keep a jar of unslacked lime handy. To quote Tip No. 69: "Tinware will never rust if well rubbed with lard and then with common unslacked lime."

Want to clean a black leather handbag? That's easy, the book says. Just rub with a mixture of one teaspoon of sweet oil and two teaspoons of milk, winding up by polishing with a "good grade of furniture polish."

No. 107 would seem to cut the ground from under any high-falutin' new patent stuff for cleaning wallpaper. Just "dust it thoroughly, then rub down evenly with bread, changing the bread as it becomes soiled." And another: "Grease the lips of the cream or milk pitcher with butter to prevent the drip."

For white enamelware the sensible cleaner is baking soda and rainwater. And "a tablespoon of turpentine boiled with the clothes will make them snowy white." And if there is danger of the clothes freezing to the clothesline, "boil the rope for half an hour in salt water—and the clothesline, too." But what if the clothesline is wire?

How To Keep Well

Drug Treatment Of Tuberculosis

Eighteen years ago a 20 year old mother came to our hospital with tuberculosis of the bones of the foot. There was nothing to do except amputation. She ultimately obtained an artificial limb and has rehabilitated herself despite the handicap. Today our new drugs take the place of amputation and had they been available at that time, this woman would not have lost her foot.

The antituberculous agents, streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid, are not as good as the original new releases on their introduction led us to believe, nor are they as useless as the medical pessimists predicted. The main objection to these products is that after a certain length of time tubercle bacilli become resistant and no longer are affected by the action of the drugs. Resistance occurs sooner when they are used alone but is delayed when combinations are employed. In this respect, treatment is a matter of chance as the die is cast after the remedy is given. There is no way of predicting whether or not the drug will kill the organisms and lead to cure or whether resistance will develop so that the disease remains unchanged.

Tests have shown that the combination of streptomycin and isoniazid appears to be most effective. After 28 weeks of treatment in cases of active tuberculosis, one-half of the patients taking isoniazid alone had tubercle bacilli in the sputum. On the other hand, only one-third of those who received a combination of streptomycin and PAS and one-quarter of those who took streptomycin and isoniazid had a positive sputum. These statistics tend to show the streptomycin-isoniazid combination is best and isoniazid alone is least helpful in ridding sputum of tuberculous germs.

After the remedy is administered, many victims of tuberculosis notice improvement in strength, appetite, and cough. Fever has a tendency to subside and weight to increase. X-ray improvements are not so impressive and in a series of 20 patients, for example, 11 showed only slight evidence of transient or permanent improvement after the first course of treatment.

How does isoniazid influence the tubercle bacillus? The answer is not known although the most plausible theory is that the drug interferes with the germ's metabolism, thereby robbing it of a substance essential for growth and development. The effect is not noted immediately because the bacillus continues to multiply until the population has approximately doubled, at which point lack of this essential substance is felt most. So many bacilli are present to share this metabolite that the amount for each is reduced below the critical level necessary for further division. When this stage is reached they starve to death.

These modern chemicals are worth while in other types of tuberculosis including that of the skin, kidneys, larynx, sinuses, ears, and joints. Even the military form in which the organisms invade the blood stream has responded. Improvement also occurs in tubercular meningitis where the membranes surrounding the brain are attacked. This is remarkable because prior to streptomycin, PAS, and isoniazid, victims of this type of tuberculosis usually died within three weeks after the appearance of the first symptoms.

INFLAMMATION AND REMOVAL
Mrs. W. writes: My sister had her gall bladder removed recently and the chart said "cholecystitis and cholecystectomy." Does this mean she had two operations? She had 22 stitches.

REPLY
No. Chole (bile), cyst (bladder), and its (inflammation) means inflammation of the gall bladder; and chole (bile), cyst (bladder), and ectomy (excision) means removal of the gall bladder.

ALLERGY AND EDEMA
D. L. writes: Are the symptoms of allergy the same as those of edema?

REPLY
Some forms of allergy produce edema such as hives on the skin and angioneurotic edema which causes puffiness of the face and other tissues. This edema is not as massive as that which develops in the legs, thighs, and abdomen in victims of heart disease or the leg swelling in elephantiasis and milk leg.

DARKENED SKIN
J. writes: I fell and cut my left leg, and after the wound healed the skin never went back to its normal color. Is this unusual?

REPLY
Yes, but the phenomenon is noted now and then after lacerations, cuts, contusions, and burns. It occurs most frequently in dark skinned persons, and apparently results from an associated damage of the blood and nerve supply.

FUNNEL CHEST
D. E. writes: What would cause a depression, or hole, just below the breastbone?

REPLY
The individual is born with a defect in the breastbone. The condition need cause no concern unless the bone is so depressed it displaces the heart.

200 Cigars Helped To Bring Ike To Defiance; Conservation Leaders Boil; Milton Eisenhower Favors Giving Land-Grant College Soil-Conservation Job

EN ROUTE THROUGH THE MIDDLE WEST—There was a special reason why President Eisenhower stopped at The Defiance College in Defiance, Ohio, en route to the Mexican border. That reason had to do with 200 special cigars in glass containers prepared by the American Tobacco Company and labeled "Defiance Welcomes the Eisenhower's, September, 1953."

Actually Ike got there in October, so the cigars weren't quite up to date. Nevertheless he got there. And the story behind all this is that Kevin McCann, president of The Defiance College—Dr. McCann insists upon the "the"—had obtained a promise from the President last summer that he would stop off at Defiance, O., en route home from Denver, Dr. McCann is

Ike's original biographer and wrote the book syndicated in many newspapers last year which helped to prepare for his nomination.

And having obtained the promise that Ike would stop over, McCann proceeded to get ready for him.

He spent $150 on a new cornerstone, raised a lot of money to extend the runways of the Defiance airport so Ike's big plane could land, and had the special cigars made for 200 guests. Furthermore, the City of Defiance turned out with gala decorations—when suddenly McCann got a wire from the President reading:

"Sorry we won't be able to stop at Defiance on way home, Kevin. We have to stop in Chicago to pick up the kids."

Ike referred to the fact that he had to pick up his grandchildren who were visiting in-laws at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

McCann got a bad razzing from the folks at Defiance, and for a time he didn't feel much like living there. However, he went to Washington, made a personal appeal to the President, and Ike finally decided to stop at Defiance in October, not September.

Boiling At Benson

If Secretary of Agriculture Benson had realized the political storm that was brewing in Wisconsin last week, he might not have announced his reorganization of the Agriculture Department on the date he did.

As it was, Benson popped his plan to lop off a lot of soil-conservation districts and abolish the Production and Marketing Administration, just as Wisconsin farmers were showing what they thought of Benson's policies.

Next day, however, some farm groups elsewhere in the nation were even more irate than those in Wisconsin—especially the National Association of Soil-Conservation Districts. In making its reorganization announcement, the Agriculture Department stated that the Soil-Conservation Association had been consulted in advance. But that didn't seem to quiet soil-conservation leaders.

"That's a lie," said Walter Davis of League City, Texas, president of the association. "We were not consulted."

"I got a telegram in Providence, R. I., instructing me to bring my board of directors to Washington for a meeting at 2 p. m., October 12," he explained. "This meant spending $6,000 for traveling expenses for 25 directors. Instead I brought in four leading directors, all of whom voted for Eisenhower. But we were given no chance to discuss the reorganization plan. The plan was all cut and dried. We were merely shown a copy of it."

Belligerent Conference

The soil-conservation leaders who came to Washington included Nolan Fuqua of Duncan, Okla.; George R. Heidrich, of Charleston, W. Va.; R. Edward Bauer of Van Meter, Iowa; and Francis Lindsay of Loomis, Calif. They conferred with Earl Coke of Davis, Calif., assistant secretary of Agriculture. All these men not only voted for Eisenhower but campaigned for him.

At the meeting, Davis, president of the association, asked: "Under your reorganization plan for soil conservation, what technical stations will the states have?" "We have not given that any study," replied Assistant Secretary Coke.

"What?" gasped Davis in astonishment. "Will you repeat that statement?"

"We have not given that any study," Coke replied. Davis and his associates remarked that this meant that 1,000 highly trained technical experts on soil conservation would be fired, seven big regional offices would be disbanded, and yet no provision would be made for technical experts in the 48 states to replace them.

"How can you say this plan will provide better help when you haven't gone into any detail?" asked Fuqua of Oklahoma.

Coke declined to answer.

"Will the volunteer soil conservationists all over the country have a chance to argue about this plan?" asked Davis.

"We have no further plan for discussing the matter," replied the assistant secretary of Agriculture.

Milton Eisenhower Reverses
The soil-conservation leaders had plenty to say after the meeting.

"This," remarked Davis, "will force everyone with the slightest bit of soil conservation in his soul

Syngman Rhee Speaking

SEOUL.

Syngman Rhee has said it before, but he is saying it now more flatly, firmly and frequently. He will renew the Korean War if his country has not been unified by a political conference or other means within three months time. He has the power to make good his threat, despite rather desperate American efforts to gain a hold on him. And his threat could hardly be more bluntly stated.

"Whether we win or lose, we have to fight to unify our country if that is the only way. That's all there is to it."

That was the Korean president's last statement, his final summing up, of a long and almost eerily dispassionate discussion of the situation in Korea. There was no possibility of mistaking what he said. The only question was whether he meant it. But the question was not easy to answer.

This strange and obstinate old man has a face like a pippin, pale golden, infinitely wrinkled, with little eyes like apples. He speaks unemphatically, in a thin, piping, but still musical voice. His surroundings are in the hideous false-western style that is the sure, distressing mark of executive pomp and power in the modern Orient. But in this setting, the small, gnarled, aged figure in an ill-fitting tweed suit seems distinctly out of place.

Fights For Cause

The contrast was really too extreme between the speaker, with his air of being a benevolent Korean professor emeritus, and his words, with their portent of war. But then one remembered how Rhee had submitted to torture and exile, how he had fought by fair means and foul, how he had intrigued and bullied and defied the world, and all in this same cause. One remembered too how this man who ought to be a puppet had made the American secretary of State dance like Pinnocchio on the end of a string; how seriously he has impressed the highly astute American diplomatic and military representatives here in Korea; how these men have solemnly warned Washington that the old man may mean every word of it. And as he talked onwards, one had to admit there was a kind of logic, lunatic perhaps by some standards but not so lunatic by others, in this position Syngman Rhee has so defiantly taken.

"President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles told me they hoped that a political conference would bring good results," he said, with a thin smile. "I agreed to cooperate to the extent of waiting for 90 days beginning October 27. I don't regard myself as bound after that time."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt used to say that congressional elections are essentially "local," especially when a presidential nominee isn't running, and he lived to see the Democratic majority in Congress reduced even when he himself was running.

The special election in Wisconsin last week, in which a Democrat defeated a Republican for Congress, is being mistakenly interpreted as a sign that the Republican party in not as strong as Eisenhower. Actually, in 1950—before Ike ran—the Republicans captured 22 out of 26 governorships in the states outside the Solid South. In 1952, the Republican party again won governorships in nearly all the Northern States and the vote in several instances exceeded what Eisenhower got.

No Evidence In Statistics

There is no more illusory myth in politics than the claim about a presidential nominee being stronger than his own party in congressional elections just because his total vote is larger than the total vote for Congress. In every presidential election in the last half century the successful presidential nominee has run ahead of the congressional nominees except once, and that was in 1948 when the Democratic candidates for Congress generally ran ahead of President Truman. Very little was heard then about Mr. Truman being weaker than his party. The election statistics, usually compiled many months later, attracted very little attention and did not offset impressions of his political strength formed after election day in November 1948.

The latest statistics for the 1952 election, which have just been printed by order of the clerk of the House of Representatives, if examined carefully, show that there isn't the slightest evidence to prove Dwight Eisenhower to vote Democratic. It's the damndest thing any party ever pulled. It's strictly a payoff to Allan Kline of the Farm Bureau for supporting Eisenhower.

Waters Davis also told how he had gone to see Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, in the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver, during last year's election campaign at which time Milton had taken back the previous speech he made in Houston, Texas, proposing that soil conservation be spread out among the land-grant colleges and the 48 states.

"Milton told me," said Davis, "that he wished he had never given that speech. That was before the election."

was everywhere stronger than his party in November 1952.

There is evidence that, because of the separation of ballots, hundreds of thousands of persons didn't vote for members of Congress on either ticket although they did vote for President. In California, for instance, 578,000 persons who voted for President didn't vote for either congressional ticket. In New York State, 218,000 presidential voters failed to vote for any congressional candidate. Minnesota was an exception, as nearly 9,000 more persons there voted for members of the House of Representatives than for President. Also in that same state Senator Thye, Republican—the victor in the senatorial contest—ran 22,000 votes ahead of Eisenhower, who also carried the state.

In West Virginia, even if former Senator Revercomb, Republican, had polled as many votes as Eisenhower got, he still would have been deficient by 50,000, which was the excess that Senator Kilgore, Democrat, got over Eisenhower.

Again in Vermont, as in Minnesota, the Republican senatorial nominee ran ahead of Eisenhower. Senator Flanders received nearly 2,000 votes more than Eisenhower.

In Kentucky, John Cooper, Republican, won the race for senator and Eisenhower lost the state.

In Delaware, Senator John J. Williams, Republican, ran about 3,000 votes ahead of Eisenhower, who also carried the state.

In Missouri, while Ike carried the state by 30,000 votes, Stuart Symington, Democrat, ran 49,000 votes ahead of Eisenhower.

In Rhode Island Senator Pastore, Democrat, ran 15,000 ahead of Eisenhower, who carried the state.

Vote Only For President

In many a state, the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for senator or for Congress ran ahead of Stevenson but failed nevertheless to overcome the majority vote of the Republican nominee for Congress. Yet one hasn't heard much talk about Stevenson being weaker than his party.

The most interesting thing the statistics show—though it has happened in almost all elections heretofore—is that many voters of both parties do not take the trouble to vote for anyone except the presidential nominee, and in most states it isn't possible any more to make a single mark and vote for the entire ticket, whether it be Republican or Democratic.

The real answer is that no evidence exists to justify any inference that party strength nationally, as reflected in the votes for congressional candidates, has a significant relationship to the popularity or unpopularity of either the president in power or the presidential nominee who wins his own election.

Prayer For Guidance Opens Meeting Of Mayor-Council

Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, opened the meeting of the Mayor and Council with a prayer for guidance yesterday the first under a new procedure approved by city officials.

The meeting will be opened in the same manner each Monday with pastors of all denominations taking part.

The session lasted 18 minutes in one of the shortest on record. Business was routine.

Referred to City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum was a request for tax exemption on a farm house situated on a 260 acre tract of land of which 90 acres are in the city limits. The request was made by Edward A. Schadt, Louis Schadt, Margaret Schadt and Anna Schadt who said the land is exempt. The application was made under the city code which provides that property in excess of five acres used exclusively for agriculture and farm buildings thereon can be exempted.

Referred to Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder was the bid of Donald B. McGill of $2,151.90 for repairs to Canada Hose House.

Approved was an "Oil Progress Week" proclamation.

Three checks were authorized as follows: $35.61 to Hugh G. Bartik, 117 Fifth Street, for overpayment of taxes; $13.92 to Frank Bennett, 52 Bedford Street, for overpayment of water rent at 709 Henderson Boulevard; and $10 to Victor J. Moreland in compensation for damages to his auto as a result of a condition on Frederick Street.

Inspector Harry Whisner reported a decrease of $64.98 in receipts for the week Oct. 5-11.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long was absent from today's session. He is a delegate to the National Safety Congress in Chicago.

Keister Paroled By Judge Harris

Harold L. Keister, of Cresaptown, received a suspended sentence to the Maryland Reformatory for Males yesterday in Circuit Court on a statutory burglary charge.

Keister had been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of burglarizing the Silver Lanes Bowling Alleys during the summer. He has since obtained employment in Detroit and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris suspended a two-year sentence on condition he be of good behavior and return to Detroit.

Edward Francis Ashkettle, charged with bigamy, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Harris. Sentencing in this case was postponed until Saturday.

Ashkettle married Dolores J. Shifflett of Hagerstown on December 31, 1948. She later sued for a partial divorce. In February of 1950, Ashkettle married Malda I. Bennett. She was the complaining witness in the case.

William F. Jones, tried before the court on a charge of false pretense in obtaining money from the Unemployment Compensation Board, was found guilty and given a suspended sentence by Judge Harris. He was ordered to make restitution of $137 he obtained by false pretense.

A jury hearing a paternity case brought by a 21-year-old Cresaptown woman against a 25-year-old man from the same community, found him not guilty. This is one of the few occasions that a defendant in a paternity case has been acquitted of such charges.

Men Of LaSalle Plan Minstrel In December

A minstrel sponsored by the Men of LaSalle will be held December 6, 8 and 9 at 8:15 p. m. in Carroll Hall.

Proceeds will be turned over to the school. Frank Bareis is committee chairman, assisted by Earl M. Nonnenmann, musical director. Local talent, including high school students, rehearse for the three-time presentation each Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the school.

They went "straight up." They were filled with helium by the Cumberland Welding Supply Company. Balloons were also loosed at 30 other key industrial cities from coast to coast.

Public Welfare Funds Report Is Given

Only two counties spent more money on public welfare during the fiscal year ending June 30 than Allegany County, according to the annual report of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Allegany County expended $156,738.43 in the program during the fiscal year. The state contributed $264,977.73 and the federal government $470,055.82 for the various relief programs. The total spent during the year in the county was $891,771.98.

Oddly enough, Allegany County received the largest total amount from the state and federal government in matching funds although Baltimore County and Montgomery County both made local contributions of much larger sums. Baltimore County's share of the public welfare costs amounted to $266,884.22 and Montgomery County put up $175,569.75 with the former having total expenditures of $858,595.42 and the latter $468,588.07.

Garrett County had expenditures of $329,213.90 with the state contributing $88,440.53 and the federal government $195,130.81.

Allegany County expenditures for old age assistance totaled $310-

173.30 with $203,979.58 being received from the federal government and $54,264.86 from the state. Aid to dependent children amounted to $287,905.39 with the federal government putting up $175,505.18 and the state $96,050.21.

Public assistance to the needy blind amounted to $11,434.37 with the federal contribution $7,222.76 and the state putting up $209.55. Aid to permanently and totally disabled cost $80,335.96 with the federal government paying $52,194.39 and the state contributing $14,070.77.

General public assistance cost $72,671.30 with the state putting up $36,335.65 and the county a similar amount. The federal government does not participate in this part of the public welfare program.

Foster care of children totaled $30,728.01 with the state paying $13,384.07 and the county a similar sum. Payments by relatives in these cases totaled $3,959.85. The federal government does not take part in this category.

Administrative costs for Allegany County's welfare program totaled $98,523.65. Salaries amounted to $86,494.59 while other office expenses were $12,029.06. The federal government contributed $28,153.91 and the state $50,662.62 for administrative expenses.

The report shows that 23 Allegany County juveniles were in state training schools as of June 30.

Luke Residents Protesting Property Assessment Boost

A petition with the signatures of 78 property owners in the town of Luke will be presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners today in protest over a greatly increased assessment against their homes.

George B. Wolfe, spokesman for the Luke residents, said that the property owners in most cases have purchased their homes from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company since 1950. The Luke paper plant sold the homes during a period starting in 1950 and ending about a year later.

Wolfe said that in most cases the reassessment notices for 1954 taxing purposes show an assessment higher than the price paid by himself and other property owners in Luke when they bought their homes.

Wolfe exhibited a tax bill for 1953 showing the assessment on his property to be $1,950. A notice he received recently from the county lists the reassessment of his property at $3,550.

Wolfe said that he remembers when the natural gas rate hike was first brought up the "Republican County Commissioners" said they thought an increase was probably justified but the 33 1/4 per cent increase proposed by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company was too much.

"Now the commissioners have come along and increased the assessments on our homes by almost 90 per cent," Wolfe declared.

More hosiery is produced in North Carolina than in any other state of the Union.

Child Is Killed As Cars Collide

A seven-year-old child of a former Cumberland couple was fatally hurt Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 274 near Farmington in Harford County.

State Police at Conowingo listed the victim as Liddie Lee Warrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warrington, who resided here and at Mexico Farms before moving to Principio Furnace some time ago.

Head injuries caused the girl's death. She died in Bainbridge Hospital.

Investigation disclosed the youngster was riding in an auto driven by her father, 36. The mother, Mrs. Virginia Lee (Hartman) Warrington, suffered a hip fracture and was admitted to the hospital.

Mrs. Warrington is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hartman, Perryville. Her father operated Colonial Inn along Route 46 in LaVale before leaving here several years ago.

The Warringtons have a one-year-old daughter. A number of uncles and aunts reside in this area.

Balloons Inaugurate Cleaner Air Week

Ten gas-filled balloons were released yesterday at City Hall in connection with Cleaner Air Week activities.

Mayor Roy W. Eves released the balloons as Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, looked on. Also on hand was George F. Hitchcock, former smoke control engineer, who resigned to accept the superintendency of the Evitts Creek Water Company.

The balloons were released on a quiet day and Mayor Eves

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only 98¢ a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember—if not entirely satisfied—your money will be refunded promptly.

Prayer For Guidance Opens Meeting Of Mayor-Council

Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, opened the meeting of the Mayor and Council with a prayer for guidance yesterday the first under a new procedure approved by city officials.

The meeting will be opened in the same manner each Monday with pastors of all denominations taking part.

The session lasted 18 minutes in one of the shortest on record. Business was routine.

Referred to City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum was a request for tax exemption on a farm house situated on a 260 acre tract of land which 90 acres are in the city limits. The request was made by Edward A. Schadt, Louis Schadt, Margaret Schadt and Anna Schadt who said the land is exempt. The application was made under the city code which provides that property in excess of five acres used exclusively for agriculture and farm buildings thereon can be exempted.

Referred to Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder was the bid of Donald B. McGill of $2,151.90 for repairs to Canada Hose House.

Approved was an "Oil Progress Week" proclamation.

Three checks were authorized as follows: $35.61 to Hugh G. Baruk, 117 Fifth Street, for overpayment of taxes; $13.92 to Frank Bennett, 32 Bedford Street, for overpayment of water rent at 709 Henderson Boulevard; and $10 to Victor J. Moreland in compensation for damages to his auto as a result of a condition on Frederick Street.

Mayor Inspector Harry Whisner reported a decrease of $64.98 in receipts for the week Oct. 5-11.

Commissioner of Police and Fire John J. Long was absent from today's session. He is a delegate to the National Safety Congress in Chicago.

Luke Residents Protest Property Assessment Boost

A petition with the signatures of 78 property owners in the town of Luke will be presented to the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners today in protest over a greatly increased assessment against their homes.

George B. Wolfe, spokesman for the Luke residents, said that the property owners in most cases have purchased their homes from the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company since 1950. The Luke paper plant sold the homes during a period starting in 1950 and ending about a year later.

Wolfe said that in most cases the reassessment notices for 1954 taxing purposes show an assessment higher than the price paid by himself and other property owners in Luke when they bought their homes.

Wolfe exhibited a tax bill for 1953 showing the assessment on his property to be $1,950. A notice he received recently from the county lists the reassessment of his property at $3,550.

Wolfe said that he remembers when the natural gas rate hike was first brought up the "Republican County Commissioners" said they thought an increase was probably justified but the 33 1/2 per cent increase proposed by the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company was too much.

"Now the commissioners have come along and increased the assessments on our homes by almost 90 per cent," Wolfe declared.

Keister Paroled By Judge Harris

Harold L. Keister, of Cresaptown, received a suspended sentence to the Maryland Reformatory for Males yesterday in Circuit Court on a statutory burglary charge.

Keister had been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of burglarizing the Silver Lanes Bowling Alleys during the summer. He has since obtained employment in Detroit and Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris suspended a two-year sentence on condition he be of good behavior and return to Detroit.

Edward Francis Ashkettle, charged with bigamy, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Harris. Sentencing in this case was postponed until Saturday.

Ashkettle married Dolores J. Shifflett of Hagerstown on December 31, 1948. She later sued for a partial divorce. In February of 1950, Ashkettle married Malda I. Bennett. She was the complaining witness in the case.

William F. Jones, tried before the court on a charge of false pretense in obtaining money from the Unemployment Compensation Board, was found guilty and given a suspended sentence by Judge Harris. He was ordered to make restitution of $137 he obtained by false pretense.

A jury hearing a paternity case brought by a 21-year-old Cresaptown woman against a 25-year-old man from the same community, found him not guilty. This is one of the few occasions that a defendant in a paternity case has been acquitted of such charges.

Public Welfare Funds Report Is Given

Only two counties spent more money on public welfare during the fiscal year ending June 30 than Allegheny County, according to the annual report of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Allegheny County expended $156,738.43 in the program during the fiscal year. The state contributed $264,977.73 and the federal government $470,055.82 for the various relief programs. The total spent during the year in the county was $891,771.98.

Oddly enough, Allegheny County received the largest total amount from the state and federal government in matching funds although Baltimore County and Montgomery County both made local contributions of much larger sums. Baltimore County's share of the public welfare costs amounted to $266,884.22 and Montgomery County put up $175,569.75 with the former having total expenditures of $858,595.42 and the latter $468,588.07.

Garrett County had expenditures of $329,213.90 with the state contributing $88,440.53 and the federal government $195,130.81. Allegheny County expenditures for old age assistance totaled $310,173.30 with $203,979.58 being received from the federal government and $54,264.86 from the state. Aid to dependent children amounted to $287,905.39 with the federal government putting up $175,505.18 and the state $96,050.21.

Public assistance to the needy blind amounted to $11,434.37 with the federal contribution $7,222.76 and the state putting up $209.55. Aid to permanently and totally disabled cost $80,335.96 with the federal government paying $52,194.39 and the state contributing $14,070.77.

General public assistance cost $72,671.30 with the state putting up $36,335.65 and the county a similar amount. The federal government does not participate in this part of the public welfare program.

Foster care of children totaled $30,728.01 with the state paying $13,384.07 and the county a similar sum. Payments by relatives in these cases totaled $3,959.85. The federal government does not take part in this category.

Administrative costs for Allegheny County's welfare program totaled $98,523.65. Salaries amounted to $86,494.59 while other office expenses were $12,029.06. The federal government contributed $28,153.91 and the state $50,662.62 for administrative expenses.

The report shows that 23 Allegheny County juveniles were in state training schools as of June 30.

CHICAGO (Special)—A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in both social and business advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways in which you can make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details in a 24-page booklet, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation whatsoever. Simply send your request to: Conversation Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 2937, Chicago 14, Ill. A postcard will do.

Dolores Ann Myers Is Bride Of Cpl. Eugene W. Scharf

Miss Dolores Ann Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Myers, 122 Polk Street, became the bride of Cpl. Eugene Wilber Scharf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilbert Scharf, 15 Market Street, Sunday.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in Trinity Lutheran Church, with Rev. G. A. Wagner officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scharf, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom, were their attendants.

The bride was attired in a Navy blue street length lace over net dress. It was fashioned with a low scalloped neckline with short sleeves and full skirt. With it she wore a matching blue hat and a corsage of yellow rosebuds completed her costume.

Her matron of honor wore a Navy blue knitted suit, with blue hat. She had a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Myers chose a black taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses, for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Scharf wore a gray taffeta with black accessories and had a corsage of pink roses.

The bride attended Fort Hill High School and is employed by Nancy Whetzel's Restaurant. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School and is stationed with the Army at Fort Myer, Arlington, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers entertained with a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridegroom, last evening, at their home. The bridal motif was carried out in the clusters of white wedding bells and white satin streamers, suspended in the doorways and from the chandelier. The same motif was repeated in the tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centering the refreshment table. Candelabra of white tapers were at either end and white satin bows were at each corner of the table. Approximately 65 guests attended.

Local BPW Urged To Own Future

Members of the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club were urged to take time "to free themselves of the bondage from work, the bondage from others and the bondage of themselves in order to be free."

The appeal was made by Mrs. Hester Beall Provenson, assistant professor of speech at the University of Maryland, in addressing the club in the National BPW theme, "The Future Belongs to the Free."

Mrs. Provenson was guest speaker at the dinner climaxing the local club's observance of BPW Week, held at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Miss Gerardine Pritchard presided and in behalf of the club, presented a gift to Mrs. Provenson. She also extended the welcome to the guests. Miss Theresa Nicht introduced the speaker.

Miss Anna Nicht, state president and member of the club, was honored guest. In accepting the club's gift presented by Miss Anna McGraw, Miss Nicht indicated that it was the members of the club who had spurred her on to her present position. Mrs. Lucile Roeder was toastmaster.

Special guests were Miss Mary Kay Williams, president of the Garrett county club; Miss Mary Louise Helbig, Dr. Hilda Jane Walters, state Membership chairman and corresponding secretary, respectively; Miss Mary Wickard, charter member of the club, and Miss Mary Nicht.

The program also included musical selections by Miss Virginia Beall, Miss Joanne Beall and Miss Ann Gormer.

The first publication of the "Bulletin Board" was distributed.

Young Business Women To Group Awards Combine Party, Initiation Exhibit Prizes

Entertains Member

The Young Business Women's Club planned a combination Halloween party and initiation ceremony at its business meeting, after which a surprise bridal shower was held for Mrs. Barbara Merritt. The meeting was held at the Central YMCA with Mrs. Mary Frye presiding.

The party and ceremony is to be held October 28 at the Y. Eleven members are to be initiated and Mrs. Merritt chairman, Miss Joan Nichols and Miss Ellen Newnam, were appointed the initiation committee. The club also decided to sell Christmas cards, Miss Naomi Parks and Miss Beatrice Parks are co-chairmen of the project. Routine reports were given and the group discussed getting a new advisor since the resignation of Mrs. Ida Lindsay.

Mrs. Merritt is the former Miss Barbara Ann Bratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bratt, Jr., 504 Montreal Avenue. She became the bride of A. J. Roy W. E. Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Merritt, 111 West Mary Street, August 4. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Gerhart A. Wagner in Trinity Lutheran Church. She is residing with her parents, while her husband is in Japan.

White wedding bells were suspended above the gift table and the refreshment table. The latter was centered with a large cake, topped with a wedding bell and encribed with "Best Wishes Barbara." Refreshments were served buffet style.

Attending were Miss Nichols, Miss Newnam, Miss Mary Linn Baker, Miss Joan Schadt, Miss Mary Louise Firlie, Miss Helen Martz, Miss Mary Ellen Ward, Miss Patricia Parker, Miss Clara Helmick, Miss Mary Ellen Helmick, Miss Marian Howdysheill, Miss Beatrice Parks, Miss Naomi Parks, Mrs. Kathleen Houck and Mrs. Mary Belle Light.

Devotions were opened by Mrs. A. E. Keeseker with the singing of "I Love to Tell the Story," with Miss Estella Cage at the piano. Miss Panck read the Scripture and a letter from Catherine Eye, missionary. The "Call to Service," message was given by Mrs. Keeseker. Mrs. Annie Thomas offered prayer and the devotions closed with the singing of "Give Your Best to the Master."

Thirty members attended. Refreshments were served by the Scott-Moffett Circle Number 3.

Local BPW Urged To Own Future

Members of the Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club were urged to take time "to free themselves of the bondage from work, the bondage from others and the bondage of themselves in order to be free." The appeal was made by Mrs. Hester Beall Provenson, assistant professor of speech at the University of Maryland, in addressing the club in the National BPW theme, "The Future Belongs to the Free."

Mrs. Provenson was guest speaker at the dinner climaxed the local club's observance of BPW Week, held at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Miss Gerardine Pritchard presided and in behalf of the club, presented a gift to Mrs. Provenson. She also extended the welcome to the guests. Miss Theresa Nicht introduced the speaker.

Miss Anna Nicht, state president and member of the club, was honored guest. In accepting the club's gift presented by Miss Anna McGraw, Miss Nicht indicated that it was the members of the club who had spurred her on to her present position. Mrs. Lucile Roeder was toastmaster.

Special guests were Miss Mary Kay Williams, president of the Garrett county club; Miss Mary Louise Helbig, Dr. Hilda Jane Walters, state Membership chairman and corresponding secretary, respectively; Miss Mary Wickard, charter member of the club, and Miss Mary Nicht.

The program also included musical selections by Miss Virginia Beall, Miss Joanne Beall and Miss Ann Gormer.

The first publication of the "Bulletin Board," was distributed.

Piney Plains Fall Festival Fun Night To Be Nov. 6

The date for the Fall Festival Fun Night of Piney Plains PTA was selected and the association voted to have a different program each month.

Plans were formulated at the regular meeting at the school. Paul T. Mann presided. November 6 was selected as the date for the festival and Fun Night. It will begin at 8 o'clock. The committee of arrangements consists of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott, Miss Carolyn Browning, J. Paul Andrick, members of the faculty; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Mann and Mrs. Harriet Shafer.

The group voted to have a different program each month and Mr. Scott assumed the responsibility for the next meeting, November 9. It also was decided that home room mothers will be called upon every fourth month for their turn serving refreshments. Money was voted to be paid to Mr. Scott, principal, to purchase athletic equipment.

Concluding the meeting Mrs. Scott showed two films and conducted short discussions about them.

Plan Training Meeting

A training meeting on the "Use of Color in Table Setting" will be conducted by Miss Florence Mason, home furnishing specialist from the University of Maryland, for 4-H local leaders and club presidents.

It is to be held in the extension office in the court house, October 26, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Young Business Women To Combine Party, Initiation

Entertains Member

The Young Business Women's Club planned a combination Halloween party and initiation ceremony at its business meeting, after which a surprise bridal shower was held for Mrs. Barbara Merritt. The meeting was held at the Central YMCA with Mrs. Mary Frye presiding.

Grace WSCS Bazaar To Be Nov. 12

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace Church planned activities and received the Auditing report at the meeting Friday. Mrs. Charles Callis presided.

It was decided to hold the annual bazaar and turkey supper November 12. The group also planned to serve the Methodist Young People banquet October 20 and the Mapleside Young People spaghetti supper, October 29.

The Auditing committee, composed of Miss Gertrude Rank, and Mrs. Vivian Mahaney, reported that in the past year the society raised $5,000 and above its pledges gave $1,000 for repairs and bought four new pews for $450, although there are only 60 active members in the society.

Mrs. Maurice Long informed the group that Mrs. Pearl Willis Jones, Rhodesia, Africa, will be its missionary for the year. It was voted to send a letter and check to her for Christmas. The society also voted to donate to the scholarship, the World Federation Day project and to give $10 to the Community Chest.

Devotions were opened by Mrs. A. E. Kessecker with the singing of "I Love to Tell the Story," with Miss Estella Cage at the piano. Miss Panck read the Scripture and a letter from Catherine Eye, missionary. The "Call to Service" message was given by Mrs. Kessecker. Mrs. Annie Thomas offered prayer and the devotions closed with the singing of "Give Your Best to the Master."

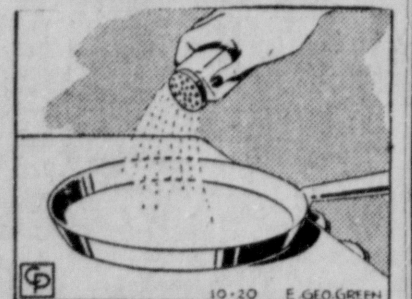

Thirty members attended. Refreshments were served by the Scott-Moffett Circle Number 3.

Personals

Miss Joan Nichols, 114 Greene Street, is improving in Memorial Hospital, where she underwent an appendectomy.

Mrs. Robert C. Ruppert and twin daughters, Janet Lynn and Janice Lee, Glenn Burnie, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert L. Gillard, 422 Valley Street.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To prevent hot grease from splattering in your kitchen, remember to sprinkle a little salt or flour in the pan before putting the grease in it. If you forget to do this, turn a colander upside down over the pan, which will allow the air to come in contact with what's cooking, but will also stop the grease from flying.

Group Awards Exhibit Prizes

Four prizes and an honorable mention were awarded, by popular vote, at the Tri State Needle Craft exhibit of the Fine Arts Group of the Woman's Civic Club, held last week at the public library.

The first prize was awarded to Mrs. G. Bates Chaires, Greene Street, for the dress, hat and bag she knitted; second award went to Mrs. Paul Burkett, Hagerstown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Minnick, Hill Top Drive, for the afghan she crocheted; third to Mrs. Edgar Crowden, Gephart Drive, for her quilt; fourth to Mrs. L. E. Erickson, Washington Street, for her three dimensional picture of wood. Mrs. Amanda Willison received honorable mention for her bed spread.

Mrs. Fay Stillwagon, chairman of the group, said last evening there were approximately 200 exhibits and a total of 500 registered attendance including, besides residents of the tri-state area, visitors from Baltimore, Sparrows Point, Hagerstown and Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Alice Engle, Frostburg, received the attendance award.

North Branch Names Nominating Committee

A Nominating committee was appointed at the meeting of the North Branch Homemakers Club at the home of Mrs. George Abbott. Mrs. Russell Valentine presided. Mrs. Joseph Pollick, Mrs. Irene Valentine and Mrs. Abbott were named.

The hymn, "Near to the Heart of God," was sung and Mrs. Asa Fresh gave the history of it. The Lord's prayer was recited in unison and roll call was answered with introducing a guest. Mrs. Robert Young spoke on the RWSC dinner and Mrs. Valentine read a letter from Mrs. Harry Johnson who is now residing in Texas. A discussion on judging fruits and vegetables was held.

Each member is to bring an antique to the Achievement day program the club will have in conjunction with the next meeting, and is to be ready to give the history of it. It will begin with a covered dish dinner at noon at the home of Mrs. Irene Valentine.

Refreshments were served and a recreational period held at the conclusion of the meeting.

MR. AND MRS. EUGENE BOHON

Miss Robinson Is Married In Pretty Fall Ceremony

PARSONS, W. Va.—The Macedonia Methodist Church near St. George was the scene of the pretty fall wedding Saturday, October 3, when Miss Virginia Ruth Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Robinson of St. George, became the bride of Eugene Bohon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bohon, also of St. George.

Rev. C. B. Davis, pastor, officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long gown of white net over taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice and a full skirt. Her finger tip veil of illusion was caught with a tiera of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with pink carnations and marked with silver ribbon.

Mrs. Beckham Moore of Dayton, Ohio, was her sister's matron of honor. She wore a blue ballerina length gown of net over taffeta and a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Anetta Shahan, cousin of the bride, wore a bridesmaid's dress. Miss Davis wore lavender and Miss Shagan blue ballerina length gowns of net over taffeta and corsages of matching baby mums. Little Dolly Bellish of Grant Town was flower girl and wore a long orchid taffeta dress and a corsage of baby mums mixed.

Erwin Bohon served his brother as best man. Marvin Parsons, Jr., of St. George was the usher.

Mrs. Robinson wore a black two-piece suit with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Bohon wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories and both wore corsages of pink mums.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents. A two-tiered wedding cake centered the table which was decorated with fall flowers. Mrs. Bates Swisher of Baltimore served cake to the nearly 50 guests.

The bride is a senior in Parsons High School. Mr. Bohon was graduated from the same school in 1949, then served two years in the Army. He has been employed as a construction worker since his discharge in February.

LaSalle Nears Record

Miss Comedy Scores

Kirks With Bobcats

Death Stops Windmill

By C. V. BURNS

TWENTY-FOUR years have elapsed since LaSalle High School reeled off five consecutive wins during a football season but the Explorers will be given an opportunity to equal that mark on Friday night when they collide with the Marauders of Catholic High at Altoona, Pa.

Only once in the 25-year history of football at the North Centre Street school has a team won five in a row and that was in 1929 when Coach Johnny Long's eleven whipped Catholic Central of Pittsburgh, Tunnelton, Berkeley Springs, St. John's Academy of Petersburg and St. John's of Washington.

Six times since then Explorer team have won four in a row but failed on the fifth try.

LaSalle figures to equal the 1929 team's mark as Altoona has dropped six straight, including a 38-6 drubbing at the hands of Hollidaysburg the past weekend.

LaSalle, incidentally, needs two more wins to reach the 100 mark in football victories.

THE TOUCHDOWN scored by Dick Bittner as Fort Hill lost at Winchester on Saturday gave the Sentinels a string of 65 consecutive games in which they have not been shut out.

MISS COMEDY, 6-year-old mare, owned by Dick Long, this city, scored her second win of the year yesterday in the 8th at Waterford Park and returned $6.20, $5 and $3. Miss Comedy's last win was at Charles Town in August.

L. E. Torreyson trains the Long mare.

DAVE EMERY, the top rider at Fairgo in 1927, who was mentioned here last week as a leading owner-trainer, now has a string of 17 thoroughbreds most of which are racing at Pimlico.

They are Eagle Eye, Sir Cross, Monacan, Lolly Su, Blue Shore, Blue Square, Effie W., Blue Volt, Fulton Market, Rabah, Brad F., Gladfoot, Solicitor, Our Kite, Ann Spera, King Mowlee and Allies.

He has saddled five winners in seven days at the Maryland miller, namely, Monacan, twice, Solicitor, King Mowlee and Our Kite and Blue Shore took place money. Blue Square and Solicitor are slated to go postward today.

THE UNIVERSITY of Pittsburgh may make soccer a varsity sport next year.

Olson Remains 11-5 Choice To Beat Turpin

Title Battle Set Tomorrow In New York

Fight Managers Pick Bobo; Freddie Brown Likes Turpin By KO

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—What's with Randy Turpin? That's the puzzle for the fight mob trying to stab a winner as odds favoring Bobo Olson hold steady at 11 to 5 in Wednesday's middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Olson is a known quantity. The baldish Hawaiian is a busy, cute fighter without too much wallow. Turpin used to be a rugged, awkward fighter who manhandled Sugar Ray Robinson like he never was handled before. But what is he today?

Randy Confuses Experts

The British Negro did his best to confuse the experts with his sporadic training at Grossinger, N.Y. He had three capable spar-mates but boxed only five times in three weeks. In the last week he worked only once, or, at least, only once publicly.

"He hasn't done enough boxing to suit me," said Jack Solomons, the London promoter. "When I watched him he appeared out of distance (off on his timing)."

"I talked to George (Manager George Middleton) on the telephone today and he was as happy as could be. He said he didn't want to tell me his weight on the phone but not to worry."

"I was not impressed by the Olson that fought Hairston (Eugene Hairston, who was stopped by Bobo in 1952). Perhaps he has improved since then but a man that can't punch hard can't beat a Turpin."

American managers and trainers, baffled by Turpin's strange training routine, are picking Olson almost to a man.

Yoross Likes Olson

"He's a better fighter," said Whitey Bimstein, veteran trainer. "I saw him (Olson) when he was just a punk kid, boxing Tommy Yaross. He can do anything the other guy does and keep going all night."

"What do we know about Turpin?" said Harry Stickevers, manager of Paddy Young who lost to Olson in the American title bout last June. "I've got to lean to Olson. Paddy feels the same way."

Picks Turpin By KO

"I like Turpin to knock him out," said Brown. "When he hits him, he'll know he got hit. Young staggered Olson a few times and did nothing about it. Olson is too slow for this fellow. He's a real strong guy."

Makes Bobo Favorite

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The only London bookie advertising for business on the Bobo Olson-Randy Turpin middleweight title fight made Olson a 4 to 6 favorite today.

The bookmaker, Manny King, offered to lay 5 to 4 against Turpin winning the bout in New York Wednesday night.

Green Earns Beall High Soccer Award

Selection of James Green, halfback, as Beall High's soccer player of the week for his performance in last week's contest against Valley High of Lonaconing, was announced last night by Coach Edward Finzel.

Green is the fourth Beall booster chosen for the award—a miniature gold soccer ball that will be presented by the Beall Boosters Club.

NFL Attendance Up 72,000, Eight Clubs Are In The Red

Bell Predicts Loop Will Win TV Suit

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, made his annual report to the New York football writers today.

He said:

1. Attendance in the first 24 games is 72,000 above that of last year—an average of 3,000 a game—and the league is headed for an all-time crowd mark.

2. The pro circuit is so evenly balanced that every club in it will lose at least three games. The Cleveland Browns currently are the league's only unbeaten team.

3. Salaries are 400 per cent above what they were 10 years ago and can be met only because of added television receipts.

Four Clubs In Black

4. Pro football is a "lousy business" with only four of the 12 clubs in the black. "You go to a bank and try to borrow money on it and they'll shut the door in your face."

5. The NFL will win the television suit brought by the government because "we're not going to stand for socialized medicine and we're not going to stand for socialized TV."

The squat, husky-voiced pro executive said the pro teams offer their games on 150 outlets during a 24-hour period starting Saturday night and "no other program has as many outlets unless it's the President of the United States."

"We give the people plenty of television," he added. "But we're going to protect our home gate. We're not going to permit television of home games. And we're going to win the suit."

Case Still In Courts

The NFL is on the government's anti-trust carpet, charged with entering into a conspiracy to restrain trade. The case is still in federal courts.

Bell refused to name the four teams which are operating in the black but said: "You can guess which ones they are."

A guess would be the Detroit Lions, New York Giants, Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Rams.

Penn Avenue, Carver, Little Campers Win Touch Grid Games

The Little Campers defeated the Little Sentinels, 24-18, Penn Avenue blanked East Side, 30-0, and Carver downed the Rolling Mill, 30-6, in games played yesterday in the Junior High Division of the City Rec Touch Football League.

Rice of the Little Campers and Hillegas and Rankin of Penn Avenue paced the scorers with two touchdowns each.

At Penn Avenue:
LITTLE CAMPERS 6 6 6 6-24
LITTLE SENTINELS 6 6 6 0-18

At East Side:
PENN AVENUE 12 12 0 6-30

At Constitution Park:
CARVER 12 6 6 6-30
ROLLING MILL 6 0 6 0-6

Touchdowns: Carver—E. Stewart, Washington, T. Smith, W. Smith, E. Green. Rolling Mill—Bosley.

Floyd Patterson Defeats Bascom

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (INS)—Young Floyd Patterson of Brooklyn won his eighth straight professional fight tonight by pouncing out a unanimous eight-round decision over Wes Bascom of St. Louis in a nationally televised match.

Patterson, 19-year-old former Olympic middleweight champion, easily out-slugged his more-seasoned opponent and was in command all the way.

Flintstone High Seeks Win Today, First Place Tie

Engages Mt. Savage, Bruce Faces Beall

Flintstone High School's Aggies need a victory to tie Valley High of Lonaconing for first place in the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League and Coach Orville Jackson's boosters hope to score it today when they play host to Mt. Savage at Flintstone at 3:30 o'clock.

Valley High, idle today, is setting the pace in the championship race with a 3-1 record while Flintstone holds the runner-up spot with two wins and one defeat.

Cecil Warnick will officiate. As the halfway mark in the league schedule is reached, Bruce High of Westport will tackle Beall at Frostburg in today's other contest.

Beall, Bruce and Mt. Savage are deadlocked for third place with 1-2 records.

Old Germans Quint Starts Drills Today

Candidates Practice On "Y" Court At 8:15

Candidates for the Old Germans professional basketball team, which will represent Cumberland in the independent ranks for the second straight year, will hold their initial practice session tonight at 8:15 o'clock on the Central YMCA court, Robert E. Pence announced last night.

Another practice session is set for Wednesday at 7:15 at the "Y." The Queen City Brewing Company made its debut as sponsor of the local pro quint last year and the locals won 12 and lost 4 against road clubs such as the Broadway Clowns, Jersey City Reds, Kansas City Trotters, Wheeling Blues, Pittsburgh Raiders, Miami Hoboes, New York Yankees, Pittsburgh Dukes, Clarksburg Tirmen, Charles Town Legion, Harlem Aces, Harlem Hoboes, Wheeling Blues and Detroit Vagabonds. Nine of the Old G's wins came in consecutive order.

Members of the local team last season were Bob Pence, Roy Lester, Jimmy Clevenger, George Geatz, Lou Bell, Roger Day and Wayne Bour.

Pence stated that he is uncertain just how many holdovers from last season will be available but he feels that a majority of the players will be back and expects several new faces in the lineup. Players seeking tryouts are invited to attend both sessions this week.

Cumberland has been represented by pro basketball teams for the past seven years. Quints sponsored by the Amvets, Dukes, Spas and Old Germans have piled up 110 victories and lost 89 for a .553 average over that period.

Suffers Broken Arm

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19 (AP)—X-rays showed today that Jerry Helluin, 280-pound middle guard on defense for the Cleveland Browns, broke his left arm early in yesterday's game against Washington.

Dr. Victor Ippolito, club physician, said Helluin would be out of the lineup at least six weeks.

Death Stops Windmill

By C. V. BURNS

TWENTY-FOUR years have elapsed since LaSalle High School reeled off five consecutive wins during a football season but the Explorers will be given an opportunity to equal that mark on Friday night when they collide with the Marauders of Catholic High at Altoona, Pa.

Only once in the 25-year history of football at the North Centre Street school has a team won five in a row and that was in 1929 when Coach Johnny Long's eleven whipped Catholic Central of Pittsburgh, Tunnelton, Berkeley Springs, St. John's Academy of Petersburg and St. John's of Washington.

Six times since then Explorer team have won four in a row but failed on the fifth try.

LaSalle figures to equal the 1929 team's mark as Altoona has dropped six straight, including a 38-6 drubbing at the hands of Hollidaysburg the past weekend.

LaSalle, incidentally, needs two more wins to reach the 100 mark in football victories.

THE TOUCHDOWN scored by Dick Bittner as Fort Hill lost at Winchester on Saturday gave the Sentinels a string of 65 consecutive games in which they have not been shut out.

MISS COMEDY, 6-year-old mare, owned by Dick Long, this city, scored her second win of the year yesterday in the 8th at Waterford Park and returned $6.20, $5 and $3. Miss Comedy's last win was at Charles Town in August.

Last year Miss Comedy ran out of the money 15 consecutive times. Her record for 1953 is 2-12 in 11 starts.

Bob topped off his brilliant play by leading the Bartonites to the state Class "C" basketball title at College Park.

He and his brother Bill, who also starred in basketball at Barton, are now on the Bobcats' soccer team. It was Bill's penalty goal that handed Slippery Rock its first defeat in three years last Friday.

IT WILL BE 27 years ago this Thursday that Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, one of the greatest fighters of all time, died following an eye operation.

The "Human Windmill," as he was known to fight fans throughout the nation, boxed from 1913 to 1926, won the American light-heavy and world's middleweight titles and was the only fighter to defeat Gene Tunney.

His fighting weight was 160 pounds but he specialized in trouncing light-heavy and heavyweights. In fact, he thought nothing of being out-weighted 60 pounds.

In his early days in the ring, Greb boxed in Allegheny county eight times—four times in Lonaconing and four times in Cumberland—from 1915 to 1918. He appeared in two of the longest bouts on record in this state, decisioning Fay Kaiser at Lonaconing in 20 rounds, and boxed a 20-round draw with Jackie Clarke here.

Harry fought them all and appeared in as many as three bouts a week. He kept in shape by fighting often.

We saw him in action four times and we've never seen anyone his equal as a ring gladiator.

Frostburg Touch Football League Opens Saturday

FROSTBURG, Oct. 19 — Frostburg's two-division Touch Football League, composed of eight teams, will open its season on Saturday, Oct. 24 when four games will be played at Beall High Field. At 9:30 a. m., the Dodgers will play the Cardinals and the Braves will play the Phillies in National Division contests.

At 10:30 the Indians will oppose the Yankees and the Red Sox will battle the White Sox in American Division tilts.

Each team will play the three other teams in its division once during the short season. Ray Hull, Beall High coach, is supervisor with Francis Carrington and Cliff Fearer as assistants. Players of the Beall and LaSalle High varsity squads have been assigned as coaches of the team.

Olson Remains 11-5 Choice To Beat Turpin

Title Battle Set Tomorrow In New York

Fight Managers Pick Bobo; Freddie Brown Likes Turpin By KO

By JACK HAND NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—What's the puzzle for the fight mob trying to stab a winner as odds favoring Bobo Olson hold steady at 11 to 5 in Wednesday's middleweight title bout at Madison Square Garden.

Olson is a known quantity. The baldish Hawaiian is a busy, cute fighter without too much wallop. Turpin used to be a rugged, awkward fighter who manhandled Sugar Ray Robinson like he never was handled before. But what is he today?

Randy Confuses Experts

The British Negro did his best to confuse the experts with his sporadic training at Grossinger, N.Y. He had three capable sparring partners but boxed only five times in three weeks. In the last week he worked only once, or, at least, only once publicly.

"He hasn't done enough boxing to suit me," said Jack Solomons, the London promoter. "When I watched him he appeared out of distance (off on his timing)."

"I talked to George (Manager George Middleton) on the telephone today and he was as happy as could be. He said he didn't want to tell me his weight on the phone but not to worry."

"I was not impressed by the Olson that fought Hairston (Eugene Hairston, who was stopped by Bobo in 1952). Perhaps he has improved since then but a man that can't punch hard can't beat a Turpin." American managers and trainers, baffled by Turpin's strange training routine, are picking Olson almost to a man.

Yorosz Likes Olson

"He's a better fighter," said Whitey Bimstein, veteran trainer. "I saw him (Olson) when he was just a punk kid, boxing Tommy Yorosz. He can do anything the other guy does and keep going all night."

"What do we know about Turpin?" said Harry Stickelers, manager of Paddy Young who lost to Olson in the American title bout last June. "I've got to lean to Olson. Paddy feels the same way."

Freddie Brown, veteran corner man, casts a solid dissenting vote.

Picks Turpin By KO "I like Turpin to knock him out," said Brown. "When he hits him, he'll know he got hit. Young staggered Olson a few times and did nothing about it. Olson is too slow for this fellow. He's a real strong guy."

City Asks Study Of Pro-Rating Funds From Movie Charity Fund

The Mayor and Council yesterday asked for a study of a pro-rated program to take care of the various requests which come under its Movie Charity Fund. The action asked by Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan came as the result of a request by the Salvation Army for assistance in its fund drive after the Army withdrew from the Community Chest.

In referring the study to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibon it was explained that pro-rated shares would be figured after mandatory expenses against the account had been subtracted.

The auditor, it was said, would take estimated revenues for the Movie Charity Fund (Sunday movie tax) for the fiscal period, deduct from that total expenses which have been made mandatory (maintenance and expense of Girl Scout House) then pro-rate the balance of income. These pro-rated amounts would be in proportion to those made to the several agencies which participated in the Movie Charity Fund before.

These include the Community Chest, Heart Association, Salvation Army, Allegany County Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Red Cross, Elks Minsirel for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and Jewish Welfare. Gibon said it is estimated that the fund could realize at a maximum about $6,000 from which $500 for the Girl Scout House would be deducted. That would leave a total of $5,500.

Council two weeks ago approved an order to give the Community Chest $9,000. Under the pro-rated plan, that order would have to be rescinded. The Chest contribution also was to have come from the Movie Charity Fund.

Based on the amount voted the Community Chest, Gibon said the Salvation Army share amounts to about 12 per cent. That would be about $700 which the Army would receive under the pro-rate program.

Action on the Salvation Army request for assistance in its fund drive was asked in a letter to council from the chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, Lewis J. Ort.

All Would Share
The pro-rating of the funds was asked so all who have participated in the fund in the past might get their fair share in the rapidly diminishing source of revenue.

The action asked by Finance Commissioner William W. Keegan came as the result of a request by the Salvation Army for assistance in its fund drive after the Army withdrew from the Community Chest.

In referring the study to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibon it was explained that pro-rated shares would be figured after mandatory expenses against the account had been subtracted.

The auditor, it was said, would take estimated revenues for the Movie Charity Fund (Sunday movie tax) for the fiscal period, deduct from that total expenses which have been made mandatory (maintenance and expense of Girl Scout House) then pro-rate the balance of income. These pro-rated amounts would be in proportion to those made to the several agencies which participated in the Movie Charity Fund before.

These include the Community Chest, Heart Association, Salvation Army, Allegany County Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Red Cross, Elks Minstrel for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and Jewish Welfare.

Gibson said it is estimated that the fund could realize at a maximum about $6,000 from which $500 for the Girl Scout House would be deducted. That would leave a total of $5,500.

Council two weeks ago approved an order to give the Community Chest $9,000. Under the pro-rated plan, that order would have to be rescinded. The Chest contribution also was to have come from the Movie Charity Fund.

Based on the amount voted the Community Chest, Gibon said the Salvation Army share amounts to about 12 per cent. That would be about $700 which the Army would receive under the pro-rate program.

Action on the Salvation Army request for assistance in its fund drive was asked in a letter to council from the chairman of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, Lewis J. Ort.

All Would Share
The pro-rating of the funds was asked so all who have participated in the fund in the past might get their fair share in the rapidly diminishing source of revenue.

DUPLICATE INJUSTICE
IT IS POSSIBLE to get certain kinds of tough breaks in duplicate tournaments which can not befall you in rubber bridge. Some peculiar development may cause a result at your table which is entirely different from that obtained at all other tables on the same deal. Of course, that unique result may be better for your side than what developed with others playing the same hands as your pair. Or it may be worse. In the latter case, your partner and you are prone to reflect that there is no justice in the world.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Wm. H. Green, who was killed Oct. 20, 1932. The call was sudden, the shock severe. We little thought such grief was near. Only those who have lost can tell. The pain of parting without farewell. God gave us strength to face it. And gave us courage to bear the blow. But what it meant to lose him. No one will ever know. His Wife and Children

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Wm. H. Green, who was killed Oct. 20, 1952.
The call was sudden, the shock severe; We little thought such grief was near. Only those who have lost can tell. The pain of parting without farewell. God gave us strength to face the blow, And gave us courage to bear the blow, But what it meant to lose him No one will ever know.

Local Bus Service Under Attack At Public Meeting In City Hall

Over 200 Residents Air Schedules
And Call For Action By State PSC

Mayor Roy W. Eves pledged last night that the Mayor and Council will ask the Public Service Commission of Maryland to attend a public meeting here and hear directly the complaints of citizens over bus service in Cumberland.

The decision to ask PSC members to come to Cumberland and "face the music" before citizens affected followed a suggestion made by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, at a meeting attended by up to 200 citizens in City Hall.

The meeting to "get the facts" was called by B & O Federation No. 7, composed of some 1,500 members of shop craft unions.

Delegate Estel C. Kelley was moderator of the meeting, opened by E. W. Valentine, secretary of Federation No. 7.

C. J. McKay, president of the federation, termed local bus service inadequate and "lousy."

He suggested that the City of Cumberland take over the bus line, adding he saw no reason why the city could not make money on the operation.

Neil Toey, president of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA (CIO), backed McKay's suggestion that the city operate the bus line, adding that adequate bus service is one of the things a city must offer to industries which are considering moving to Cumberland.

Is Studying Routes
Toey said schedules here since the first of the month have been so interrupted that the public is confused.

At this point, Valentine read a letter from Alfred Dean, executive secretary of the Public Service Commission, expressing regret that members of the PSC could not attend the meeting and adding that the PSC is currently studying bus schedules here.

In response to a query if a representative of the bus company were present, Valentine said Guy M. Davis, owner, had not been invited.

George B. McLaughlin, 453 Baltimore Avenue, represented Kelly-Springfield Tire Company workers and some 300 residents of that area, which now has service only once each two hours.

Says Service Poor
From Bowman's Addition, Mrs. McKenzie queried if merchants of the city are not interested in making it possible for people to shop here, citing the two-hour schedule there. She said her husband quits work at 3 p. m. and has to hitchhike home or wait until 4 p. m. for a bus. She also protested the 18-cent fare charged for school children after school hours, and wondered why Ridgeley citizens can ride outside the city for one token.

Miss Azelma Frantz, representing Local 654, Retail Clerks Union, said present schedules are poor for most clerks who live in outlying areas.

Bernard E. Tasker, governor of Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose, said present "slipshod" service to the West Side does not allow the 1,300 members of the lodge to use the facilities of the lodge or attend meetings.

He added service to Memorial Hospital from the West Side is poor, and that nurses who work there must leave the West Side at 9:15 p. m. to get to work by 11 p. m.

Gives Student Complaints
A Shriver Avenue resident painted a similar picture of service and termed some of the buses "cattle cars."

John H. Raupach, president of the Student Council of Fort Hill High School, said students of the school are interested in bus schedules to the school.

But many of the schedules, he said, either get students to school too early or too late, and students

Kidnap Suspects To Face Action Of Federal Jury

$1,500 Bond Is Set
For Virginia Youths

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Three young Virginians were ordered held for Federal grand jury action and a fourth was released today after a hearing before a U.S. commissioner on charges of kidnapping a young Hagerstown woman.

Commissioner C. Wells Little set bail at $1,500 each for Earl L. Tomblin, 20, and Marion F. Hough, 21, both of Round Hill, Va., and Daniel D. Walters, 20, of Purcellville, Va.

He dismissed the charge against a 15-year-old defendant for lack of evidence.

The commissioner acted after Miss Marie Celina Joffile told of being forced into a car at gunpoint and being driven to Purcellville.

She said she and two male companions had met the four Virginians in a Martinsburg (W.Va.) tavern early last Saturday. Her companions fled after a fight in which two of the newcomers flourished a knife and a pistol, she added, and she was ordered into the Virginians' automobile.

Miss Joffile said Tomblin released her some time after the three others had been dropped off at their homes. She flagged a motorist who took her to State police.

The girl said she was not harmed, except for some scratches and bruises suffered when she tried to escape.

Attorney W. Vesey of Leesburg, Va., represented Walters and the 15-year-old at the hearing. No counsel appeared for Tomblin or Hough.

Salvation Army Appeal Reaches One-Third Mark

Advance Gifts
Total $6,254

A total of $6,254 was reported subscribed and pledged in the Salvation Army fund campaign last night as the Advance Gifts Committee held its first report meeting at the Citadel.

This represents almost half of the committee's quota of $14,000 and almost one-third of the total campaign goal of $19,500. The next report session will be held at the North Mechanic Street Citadel at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Leaders in the campaign called workers' attention to the activities of the Salvation Army in the area, particularly in South Cumberland where Lt. Harry Powell is full-time director.

The South Cumberland Corps of the Army, located on Virginia Avenue, has a full-time program of recreational, character-building and spiritual activity. Lt. Powell reports that attendance at Sunday school is averaging 110 children. These youngsters have never been affiliated with any church or other Sunday school.

In addition, a total average of 59 youngsters use the facilities of the Salvation Army on the Avenue each week, for regular recreation programs in the afternoon and evening. A well-equipped playground, property purchased, keeps these young boys and girls off the street and provides healthful activity for them.

The Corps, just as the Salvation Army uptown has always done, also strives to meet the needs of the less fortunate, the sick, the needy, the hungry, and any who go to them for assistance.

Services Varied
Campaign leaders noted last night that Lt. Powell does not work a 40-hour week. He is on duty around the clock, is often called upon late at night to meet some emergency, and "has done a splendid job" in his assignment.

This, it was emphasized, is only half of the city's Army program, since the older and longer-established Citadel on North Mechanic Street has an equally impressive record of accomplishment, achievement, and community service.

Youth Shares Robbery Loot, Draws Sentence

Purse Snatcher
Receives Break

A 23-year old youth who shared the 50 cents loot when the purse of a 77-year old woman was snatched along North Centre Street drew a sentence not to exceed three years in the Maryland Reformatory in Allegheny County Circuit Court but the 18-year old boy who actually robbed the woman of her purse got off with a suspended sentence.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who passed sentence after hearing the pleas on behalf of the pair, said that he was convinced the older youth, Raymond G. Everett of Christie Road, had proposed the robbery to the other boy, Carl R. Rice, Baltimore Pike, when he should have been a good influence for the younger youth.

John M. Robb, the court-appointed attorney for Everett and Rice, pleaded Everett not guilty of robbery, but guilty of aiding and abetting and receiving stolen goods, two other counts in the three-count indictment. Rice pleaded guilty to robbery but not guilty to the other two counts.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher outlined the facts in the case for Judge Harris after the pleas had been entered. He said that Rice and Everett met at the corner of North Centre and Frederick Streets and plotted to snatch the purse of Mrs. Ella Hilleary, who was standing across the street.

Rice grabbed the purse and hid it in a backyard off Henry Street, the state's attorney added. This occurred September 17. The two split 50 cents found in the $3 pocketbook and Everett took a $1 pen-knife. They did not discover another $17 which Mrs. Hilleary had in a secret compartment of the pocketbook.

In passing sentence, Judge Harris noted that Everett committed his first offense in 1948 and his record lists a series of other offenses since then. He also noted that Rice had gotten off on the wrong foot with an automobile larceny in 1951 but because of his youth decided to give him another chance. He gave him a term not to exceed three years in the Maryland Reformatory. The Court then suspended the term during good behavior provided Rice refrains from the use of intoxicants and reports to his probation officer.

Planning Group To Meet

The Potomac Valley Planning Group No. 1 will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stevenson, Ellerslie.

KELLY CONFERENCE—More than a hundred Kelly-Springfield Tire Company salesmen and plant officials from all parts of the United States are pictured above on the lawn of All Ghan Country Club as they opened the company's 60th Anniversary sales conference yesterday. Edmund S. Burke, president of Kelly-Springfield (lower picture) cuts the company's 60th birthday cake to open the celebration and conference. Looking on (left to right) are R. W. Richardson, assistant to the president; Marion T. Powers, sales manager, and Henry C. Swearingen, vice president of Kelly-Springfield. The letters "BFPA" on the cake and on the officials' identification tags represent the slogan of this year's conference, "Best Franchise-Product Available." Business sessions and discussion periods occupied most of yesterday's agenda, and more of the same are scheduled for today. Tomorrow, the salesmen will tour the Kelly plant here.

Commissioner Asks New Look At Projects

Mrs. Roeder Speaks
To So. End Group

A coordinating conference, in the interest of economy and greater efficiency, was proposed last night by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property as she addressed a dinner meeting of the South Cumberland Business Men's Association.

Mrs. Roeder's proposal was made as she reported on progress of the city's street department and gave a word picture of plans for the future.

The Street Commissioner believes a conference should be called between federal officials interested in the proposed C & O Canal Parkway, the Maryland State Roads Commission group advocating an overhead bridge plan, Army Engineers in charge of flood control work and the Mayor and City Council.

Out of such a conference could come a coordinated plan of action and operation which might prove economical to the city and the taxpayers, and might serve to expedite some of the work along the way, she suggested.

In her talk, Mrs. Roeder said, "Some years ago Cumberland committed itself to a Flood Protection Project. There is an authorization of bonds aggregating $400,000 still to be sold on this project before it can be completed."

"With ever rising costs since the project was instituted, it causes some concern as to whether or not the work can be finished without a further commitment of our credit, and yet we cannot stop now with millions of dollars already invested by the City, County and Federal governments."

"It is my feeling in view of limited funds left for flood work," she added, "that the City urge the Federal government to complete that part of the project upon which they have made a start—before embarking upon another new phase of the project. This would give the City a breathing spell in which to re-evaluate the situation."

"Since progress has been made on the C&O Canal Parkway—and since its proposed site lies somewhat adjacent to the proposed next flood project phase—and since the proposed overhead bridge recommended by the State Roads Commission also lies near the same vicinity—I would like to see the City invite the Parkway authorities, the State Roads Commission, and the Army Engineers to meet with the Mayor and City Council to discuss the coordination of these projects. Thus we might effect a plan which would save the City taxpayer from any further burden."

In commending the businessmen she said the association "is the kind of group like you who plan your own business and personal affairs, and you must expect and deserve the same from your elected officials."

The operation of the City Street Department, its accomplishments and future plans were outlined by Mrs. Roeder in her talk before the businessmen.

Various facts and figures were used in explaining the workings of the department. She was introduced by Glenn Morris, president of the association.

45 Supervisors Open Conference At Frostburg

Six Counties Send
School Leaders

Dr. Don S. Patterson, chief of the Elementary School Division, Office of Education of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was principal speaker yesterday as some 45 public school supervisors from six Maryland counties began a three-day conference at Frostburg State Teachers College.

"Teamwork in Supervision" was the topic of Dr. Patterson's remarks.

"Helping Teachers"
General theme for the conference is "Helping Teachers Provide Pupil Growth." What supervisors can do for assistant teachers to help pupils develop is being stressed.

Before Dr. Patterson spoke yesterday, Dr. James E. Spitznas, director of instruction for the State Department of Education, talked about problems in supervision.

Plans for today's program were discussed yesterday afternoon by Dr. John J. Seidel, assistant state superintendent of schools in charge of vocational industrial art, and Willis White, state supervisor of high schools. They reminded the supervisors of certain conditions to look for in their classroom tours of Allegheny County schools today. Tomorrow, the supervisors will be divided into four discussion groups and will consider eight different topics.

Visit Schools

The supervisors have been divided into five teams for school visitations today. Various groups will visit Beall Elementary, Crestapton, LaVale, West Side, Mt. Savage High School and Allegheny High School. Each team will look for good procedures among teachers and will attempt to answer the question as to why the procedures are good.

As yesterday's program came to a close, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools in Allegheny County, discussed the organization of the supervisory program in this county.

A dinner at the Clary Club for those attending the conference will end today's conference program. As special guests, supervisory personnel from Frostburg State Teachers College and William A. Gunter, this city, member of the State Board of Education, will attend.

At the conference are supervisors from Allegheny, Garrett, Washington, Frederick, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Two other similar conferences are planned later. One for supervisors of the Baltimore area will be held at Towson from October 28-30 and the other for the Eastern Shore will be conducted at Salisbury November 4-6.

Forest Fire Danger Worst In 23 Years

New Blazes Keep Foresters Busy

Scattered forest fires broke out over Western Maryland yesterday as a rising breeze in the mountains and a month-long dry spell pushed Maryland's fire danger to a 23-year peak.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham said the woods were the driest they had been since 1930. The skies held no promise of rain, and the Weather Bureau predicted generally fair and warm days ahead.

"If a fire broke out in a good wind," said Buckingham, "I doubt if we could control it."

Winds estimated at eight to nine miles per hour, highest in recent days, made three small Garrett County fires a difficult problem yesterday.

Half a dozen grass and brush fires in Cumberland kept firemen on the jump, and at one time early last night all four city companies were out on calls.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards urged Cumberlanders to conserve water as much as possible following the announcement that the level at the city's Lake Koon water supply is 18 feet, eight inches below the crest of the spillway. But there's no cause for alarm, Edwards said, since another 50 feet of water remains in the lake.

The last good rain in the Cumberland area was on August 7, 8 and 9, when a total of 1.98 inches fell. Since then, reported Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park, six days of rainfall have brought only 35 of an inch of rain—hardly enough to dampen the parched foliage.

The only reason there haven't been more serious fires, said State Forester Buckingham, is that up to now there hasn't been much wind.

Buckingham said he saw no immediate reason for closing the woods to hunters. Few fires, he declared, could be blamed on hunters.

But Garrett County Forest Supervisor Elmer Upole said hunters or hikers probably were to blame for the three fires which broke out in his area yesterday.

One, north of the Oakland golf course, burned over about half an acre before it was brought under control by Assistant District Forester Thomas Thayer, Forest Guard Philip Ferguson and members of the Southern Garrett County High School Forest Fire Fighters. Another, at Laurel Run near Bloomingtown, ruined two acres before Assistant Forester Jack Paulhamus and Forest Guard Merle Wilt, aided by volunteers, subdued it.

Two acres in the Blooming Rose section near Friendsville were destroyed in another blaze. The fire was put out by volunteers led by Forest Guards Charles Thomas and Richard Bond.

Upole and District Forester William H. Johnson supervised the work of firefighters at Laurel Run, and forestry workers were patrolling the scenes of all three blazes last night to guard against further outbreaks.

Wife Receives Suspended Term In Shooting

Wounds Husband
With Buck Shot

A suspended sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Women was given to Mrs. Emma Edith Smith, 62, of Winchester Road, in Allegheny County Circuit Court after she pleaded guilty to simple assault in the wounding of her 62-year old husband, Harry William Smith.

Mrs. Smith had been indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill her husband but she pleaded guilty only to the fifth count of the indictment.

Smith had left the house with a $31 welfare check and after paying a few bills bought a bottle of wine which he drank with some friends, Fletcher said. When he arrived home somewhat intoxicated he fell asleep. Later he left the house and Mrs. Smith bolted the kitchen door to keep him out. When he persisted in knocking at the door after she told him to go away she fired at her husband.

"You're to be censured too," Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris as he passed sentence in the case. "You seem to have no regrets at all. Your life wasn't in danger at the time you fired at your husband." Judge Harris concluded. He gave her a term not to exceed one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Women and suspended it upon condition of good behavior.

Judge Harris also commented that he had no jurisdiction over Smith as there was no charge against him.

Attorney Earl E. Manges, who represented Mrs. Smith, said that the Smiths had been married for 37 years, but much of that time they had been quarreling with each other. He expressed a belief that they should have been divorced long before.

Ridgeley Legion Will Meet Today

Plans for a Halloween Dance on October 30 will be discussed at 8 p. m. today during the regular monthly meeting of members of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley.

Post Commander K. Albert Wolfe last night said the second reading of a resolution for the renaming of the post will also take place. Discussion on post home improvements will also be held, Commander Wolfe added. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served.

Bishop Oxnam Here Tonight

Arrangements are being made for capacity crowds at Centre Street Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 when G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Washington Area of the Methodist Church, will be principal speaker at a public meeting in conjunction with the $800,000 church extension crusade of the Baltimore Conference.

Music will be furnished by the Westminster Seminary Choir.

Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Church, said that no offering or donation will be asked. Purpose of the meeting, he said, is to lay facts about the crusade and the needs before the Cumberland Sub-District.

Plans are being made to seat those attending in both the sanctuary and chapel and possibly the church gymnasium. A loudspeaker arrangement is being installed for those not able to be seated in the sanctuary.

The crusade is being undertaken in an effort to provide the following: Seven new church sites for future development; 17 new churches; eight additional parsonages; and unlimited funds for seminary expansion. The proposed new church in LaVale is on the list for aid.

Local Bus Service Under Attack At Public Meeting In City Hall

And Call For Action By State PSC

Mayor Roy W. Eves pledged last night that the Mayor and Council will ask the Public Service Commission of Maryland to attend a public meeting here and hear directly the complaints of citizens over bus service in Cumberland.

The decision to ask PSC members to come to Cumberland and "face the music" before citizens affected followed a suggestion made by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, at a meeting attended by up to 200 citizens in City Hall.

A Shriver Avenue resident painted a similar picture of service and termed some of the buses "cattle cars."

John H. Raupach, president of the Student Council of Fort Hill High School, said students of the school are interested in bus schedules to the school.

But many of the schedules, he said, either get students to school too early or too late, and students

Kidnap Suspects To Face Action Of Federal Jury

For Virginia Youths

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 19 (AP)—Three young Virginians were ordered held for Federal grand jury action and a fourth was released today after a hearing before a U.S. commissioner on charges of kidnapping a young Hagerstown woman.

Commissioner C. Wells Little set bail at $1,500 each for Earl L. Tomblin, 20, and Marion F. Hough, 21, both of Round Hill, Va., and Daniel D. Walters, 20, of Purcellville, Va.

He dismissed the charge against a 15-year-old defendant for lack of evidence.

Salvation Army Appeal Reaches One-Third Mark

Advance Gifts
Total $6,254

A total of $6,254 was reported subscribed and pledged in the Salvation Army fund campaign last night as the Advance Gifts Committee held its first report meeting at the Citadel.

This represents almost half of the committee's quota of $14,000 and almost one-third of the total campaign goal of $19,500. The next report session will be held at the North Mechanic Street Citadel at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Leaders in the campaign called workers' attention to the activities of the Salvation Army in the area, particularly in South Cumberland where Lt. Harry Powell is full-time director.

The South Cumberland Corps of the Army, located on Virginia Avenue, has a full-time program of recreational, character-building and spiritual activity. Lt. Powell reports that attendance at Sunday school is averaging 110 children. These youngsters have never been affiliated with any church or other Sunday school.

In addition, a total average of 59 youngsters use the facilities of the Salvation Army on the Avenue each week, for regular recreation programs in the afternoon and evening. A well-equipped playground, property supervised, keeps these young boys and girls off the street and provides healthful activity for them.

The Corps, just as the Salvation Army uptown has always done, also strives to meet the needs of the less fortunate, the sick, the needy, the hungry, and any who go to them for assistance.

Commissioner Asks New Look At Projects

Mrs. Roeder Speaks
To So. End Group

A coordinating conference, in the interest of economy and greater efficiency, was proposed last night by Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property as she addressed a dinner meeting of the South Cumberland Business Men's Association.

Mrs. Roeder's proposal was made as she reported on progress of the city's street department and gave a word picture of plans for the future.

The Street Commissioner believes a conference should be called between federal officials interested in the proposed C & O Canal Parkway, the Maryland State Roads Commission group advocating an overhead bridge plan, Army Engineers in charge of flood control work and the Mayor and City Council.

Out of such a conference could come a coordinated plan of action and operation which might prove economical to the city and the taxpayers, and might serve to expedite some of the work along the way, she suggested.

In her talk, Mrs. Roeder said, "Some years ago Cumberland committed itself to a Flood Protection Project. There is an authorization of bonds aggregating $400,000 still to be sold on this project before it can be completed."

"With ever rising costs since the project was instituted, it causes some concern as to whether or not the work can be finished without a further commitment of our credit, and yet we cannot stop now with millions of dollars already invested by the City, County and Federal governments."

"It is my feeling in view of limited funds left for flood work," she added, "that the City urge the Federal government to complete that part of the project upon which they have made a start—before embarking upon another new phase of the project. This would give the City a breathing spell in which to re-evaluate the situation."

"Since progress has been made on the C & O Canal Parkway—and since its proposed site lies somewhat adjacent to the proposed next flood project phase—and since the proposed overhead bridge recommended by the State Roads Commission also lies near the same City invite the Parkway authorities, the State Roads Commission, and the Army Engineers to meet with the Mayor and City Council to discuss the coordination of these projects. Thus we might effect a plan which would save the City taxpayer any further burden."

In commending the businessmen she said the association "is the kind of group that every city needs more of—people like you who plan your own business and personal affairs, and you must expect and deserve the same from your elected officials."

The operation of the City Street Department, its accomplishments and future plans were outlined by Mrs. Roeder in her talk before the businessmen.

Various facts and figures were used in explaining the workings of the department. She was introduced by Glenn Morris, president of the association.

45 Supervisors Open Conference At Frostburg

School Leaders

Dr. Don S. Patterson, chief of the Elementary School Division, Office of Education of the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was principal speaker yesterday as some 45 public school supervisors from six Maryland counties began a three-day conference at Frostburg State Teachers College.

"Teamwork in Supervision" was the topic of Dr. Patterson's remarks.

"Helping Teachers" was the general theme for the conference is "Helping Teachers Provide Pupil Growth." What supervisors can do for assistant teachers to help pupils develop is being stressed.

Before Dr. Patterson spoke yesterday, Dr. James E. Spitznas, director of instruction for the State Department of Education, talked about problems in supervision.

Plans for today's program were discussed yesterday afternoon by Dr. John J. Seidel, assistant state superintendent of schools in charge of vocational industrial art, and Willis White, state supervisor of high schools. They reminded the supervisors of certain conditions to look for in their classroom tours of Allegheny County schools today. Tomorrow, the supervisors will be divided into four discussion groups and will consider eight different topics.

Visit Schools

The supervisors have been divided into five teams for school visitations today. Various groups will visit Beall Elementary, Crestapton, LaVale, West Side, Mt. Savage High School and Allegheny High School. Each team will look for good procedures among teachers and will attempt to answer the question as to why the procedures are good.

As yesterday's program came to a close, Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools in Allegheny County, discussed the organization of the supervisory program in this county.

A dinner at the Clary Club for those attending the conference will end today's conference program. As special guests, supervisory personnel from Frostburg State Teachers College and William A. Gunter, this city, member of the State Board of Education, will attend.

At the conference are supervisors from Allegheny, Garrett, Washington, Frederick, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

Two other similar conferences are planned later. One for supervisors of the Baltimore area will be held at Towson from October 28-30 and the other for the Eastern Shore will be conducted at Salisbury November 4-6.

Forest Fire Danger Worst In 23 Years

New Blazes Keep Foresters Busy

Scattered forest fires broke out over Western Maryland yesterday as a rising breeze in the mountains and a month-long dry spell pushed Maryland's fire danger to a 23-year peak.

State Forester H. C. Buckingham said the woods were the driest they had been since 1930. The skies held no promise of rain, and the Weather Bureau predicted generally fair and warm days ahead.

"If a fire broke out in a good wind," said Buckingham, "I doubt if we could control it."

Winds estimated at eight to nine miles per hour, highest in recent days, made three small Garrett County fires a difficult problem yesterday.

Half a dozen grass and brush fires in Cumberland kept firemen on the jump, and at one time early last night all four city companies were out on calls.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards urged Cumberlanders to conserve water as much as possible following the announcement that the level at the city's Lake Koon water supply is 18 feet, eight inches below the crest of the spillway. But there's no cause for alarm, Edwards said, since another 50 feet of water remains in the lake.

The last good rain in the Cumberland area was on August 7, 8 and 9, when a total of 1.98 inches fell. Since then, reported Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park, six days of rainfall have brought only .35 of an inch of rain—hardly enough to dampen the parched foliage.

The only reason there haven't been more serious fires, said State Forester Buckingham, is that up to now there hasn't been much wind.

Buckingham said he saw no immediate reason for closing the woods to hunters. Few fires, he declared, could be blamed on hunters.

But Garrett County Forest Supervisor Elmer Upole said hunters or hikers probably were to blame for the three fires which broke out in his area yesterday.

One, north of the Oakland golf course, burned over about half an acre before it was brought under control by Assistant District Forester Thomas Thayer, Forest Guard Philip Ferguson and members of the Southern Garrett County High School Forest Fire Fighters.

Another, at Laurel Run near Bloomington, ruined two acres before Assistant Forester Jack Paulhamus and Forest Guard Merle Wilt, aided by volunteers, subdued it.

Two acres in the Blooming Rose section near Friendsville were destroyed in another blaze. The fire was put out by volunteers led by Forest Guards Charles Thomas and Richard Bond.

Upole and District Forester William H. Johnson supervised the work of firefighters at Laurel Run, and forestry workers were patrolling the scenes of all three blazes last night to guard against further outbreaks.

Wife Receives Suspended Term In Shooting

Wounds Husband
With Buck Shot

A suspended sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Women was given to Mrs. Emma Edith Smith, 62, of Winchester Road, in Allegheny County Circuit Court after she pleaded guilty to simple assault in the wounding of her 62-year old husband, Harry William Smith.

Mrs. Smith had been indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill her husband but she pleaded guilty only to the fifth count of the indictment.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, related the events which happened September 16, the day Smith suffered a minor abrasion in his left cheek when his wife fired a .22 caliber rifle loaded with buckshot at him.

Smith had left the house with a $51 welfare check and after paying a few bills bought a bottle of wine which he drank with some friends, Fletcher said. When he arrived home somewhat intoxicated he fell asleep. Later he left the house and Mrs. Smith bolted the kitchen door to keep him out. When he persisted in knocking at the door after she told him to go away she fired at her husband.

"You're to be censured too," Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris as he passed sentence in the case. "You seem to have no regrets at all. Your life was in danger at the time you fired at your husband," Judge Harris concluded. He gave her a term not to exceed one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Women and suspended it upon condition of good behavior.

Judge Harris also commented that he had no jurisdiction over Smith as there was no charge against him.

Attorney Earl E. Manges, who represented Mrs. Smith, said that the Smiths had been married for 37 years, but much of that time they had been quarreling with each other. He expressed a belief that they should have been divorced long before.

Ridgeley Legion Will Meet Today

Plans for a Halloween Dance on October 30 will be discussed at 8 p. m. today during the regular monthly meeting of members of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion in Ridgeley.

Post Commander K. Albert Wolfe last night said the second reading of a resolution for the renaming of the post will also take place. Discussion on post home improvements will also be held. Commander Wolfe added. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served.

Bishop Oxnam Here Tonight

Arrangements are being made for capacity crowds at Centre Street Methodist Church tonight at 7:30 when G. Bromley Oxnam, bishop of the Washington Area of the Methodist Church, will be principal speaker at a public meeting in conjunction with the $800,000 church extension crusade of the Baltimore Conference.

Music will be furnished by the Westminster Seminary Choir.

Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Church, said that no offering or donation will be asked. Purpose of the meeting, he said, is to lay facts about the crusade and the needs before the Cumberland Sub-District.

Plans are being made to seat those attending in both the sanctuary and chapel and possibly the church gymnasium. A loudspeaker arrangement is being installed for those not able to be seated in the sanctuary.

The crusade is being undertaken in an effort to provide the following: Seven new church sites for future development; 17 new churches; eight additional parsonages; and unlimited funds for seminary expansion. The proposed new church in LaVale is on the list for aid.
